Anecdotes, Personalities and Comments,

CONCERNING

STAGE FOLK and Sometimes OTHERS

BY JOSEPHINE GRO.

Incidents have been cited and printed time and again concerning the effect upon individuals in an audience of certain sentiments uttered upon the stage. These sentiments may have been expressed in a song or a scene or a line, reminiscent in some personally affecting way to the hearer. Stories have often been told of the "catch line" of a song so impressing some one wayward person in the audience that from that moment he started out to lead a better life, finally redeeming himself.

Concerning just such an incident, Lew Dockstader is trying to figure out the true reason of a man's hurried exit from his audience one night not long ago.

This individual of florid face and manner affected by the amount and brand of beverage taken with his dinner that evening, had been noisily expressing his approval of everything on the first part of the bill. When the interlocutor announced that "Mr. Joe Natus will sing that beautiful ballad, 'I'll Be Waiting, Dearie, When You Come Back Home,'" it was noticed that the intoxicated man suddenly became silent.

"By Jove!" he exclaimed to his seat companion, after fidgeting through the first verse, "I hadn't thought of that!"

When Natus reached the chorus of the song and had finished the line, "I'll be waiting," etc., the man hurriedly left his seat and made a bolt for the door. As he passed the chief usher, who afterward related the incident to Dockstader, the apparently contrite one said:

"That song just reminded me what my wife said when I left home this morning."

Now Dockstader is wondering if the cause of the man leaving the theatre was a matter of sentiment incited by that in the song, or whether it was a fear of what he would get if he did not reach home on time and in the proper state of mind and body.

Anent another popular song, "In the Apple Blossom Time," by Libbey, its talented composer was interviewed. The fact was disclosed that Libbey had written the words long before he wrote the melody. The latter did not come to him in any one of the ways that tunes are fitted to verse by popular song writers of the present. The composition of the melody to the aforementioned song is of Libbeyesque origin—not the whole melody, but the principal themes, and is an amusing illustration of his odd way of often doing things.

He sat at his desk one day, reading and rereading the words of the songs in the hope that a fitting melody would occur to him. After an hour of hard thinking he found his musical struggle a vain one. Accidentally striking his hand against an ink-bottle that stood on his desk, the act somehow annoyed him in his disappointed state of mind. Excitedly grabbing the offending bottle, Libbey banged it with great force upon the desk, with the result that the ink flew in all directions. After cooling off a bit and mopping some of the sable fluid from his face and hands, he noticed that the new white blotting pad that he had that morning fastened to the desk was also plentifully spattered. The spots and dots thereon instantly presented an association of ideas to the unique mind of the man. Quickly following this suggestion he seized a pencil and drew the five lines of the musical staff through the group of ink spots, and there, haphazardly, he got his theme. Wherever the penciled lines happened to cross the ink spots, and also wherever the spots appeared between the lines, Libbey used them in the formation of the melodic theme of his song. Humming over this accidentally yet mechanically made melody, he found that he could utilize a part of it, and this was the beginning of the "Apple Blossom Time" melody.

Maynard Waite, general press representative for Henry B. Harris' enterprises, is responsible for the following:

The exclamation, "strike!" used on the stage after the curtain rings down on an act means to clear the stage of scenery, properties, etc. An amusing occurrence took place recently where the word was used by Edwin Milton Royle with a humor of which he at the time was absolutely unconscious.

It happened during the preliminary preparation of "The Struggle Everlasting," in which Florence Roberts has been appearing at the Hackett Theatre. A baby is an important factor in the closing scene of the first act. At a dress rehearsal, under the direction of the author of the play, Mr. Royle, it was decided to repeat this act in order to correct some of the minor faults in the staging.

The baby which had been used at the close of the scene, was still in evidence on the table where it had been left when the curtain rose for the repetition. The author observing this, attempted in pantomime to indicate to the stage manager the removal of the infant. Failing in this, he stepped to the orchestra pit, where, in imploring tones, he said:

"Will you please strike that baby?"

James F. Murray, of the Murray & Alden vaudeville combination, relates an instance of John L. Sullivan's reckless liberality.

About three years ago Murray was managing a vaudeville company of which the only John was the star. They were playing the Cahn & Grant circuit through Maine. Instead of playing the Portland date, which had promised good returns, the company was switched to Bangor, where the advance sale was found to be but $6. The thermometer registered 15 degrees below zero, and Murray did not saunter through his round of calls, necessitated by his office as manager. A part of the $6 went that day for dodgers, distributed for obvious reasons specially known to the advance man.

During the afternoon he returned to the hotel and found Sullivan in his room with a barber, who had given him the whole round of hirsute attendance—haircut, shave and shampoo.

"Got any money?" asked the man of muscle.

"About $2.60," was Murray's reply.

"Just hand the barber $2 of it, will you?" said the ex-fighter.

"With pleasure," rejoined Murray, with an expression of countenance anything but pleased.

"Look here, John, you're too reckless," said he when the barber went out, "I've got only sixty cents left—what are we to do?"

"Don't fret," was the reply of the always optimistic John, "we'll have plenty of coin to-night."

And they had.

Roscoe Slater, of the sketch, "A Bit of Travesty," in which he presents and assists Leon Finch, was partaking of a hasty lunch at a quick service counter while en route, not long ago, when a seedy looking individual shuffled in, and approaching the proprietor, said:

"Say, Cull, be you the king-bee of this here hive?"

The original way in which the ill-dressed person had put the question rather amused the proprietor, who, instead of showing the unwelcome visitor the door, which is usual in such cases, pleasantly assured him that he ran the place.

"Well," said the seedy one, close enough to the door to hurry out if necessary, "I just thought I'd buzz around and sting you for a piece of pie."

His originality got the pie.

David Belasco's Twenty-Fifth Theatrical Anniversary.

For David Belasco the opening of the new Stuyvesant Theatre had a significance aside from the goal of his struggles in a career of artistic efforts and achievements, for it also commemorated his jubilee of twenty-five years' residence and activity in connection with the stage of the metropolis.

Since his arrival in August, 1882, to take charge of the stage of the Madison Square Theatre as its director and stock dramatist, no name has been more closely associated with theatrical affairs, and both as a dramatist and a director of great productions he is known not only throughout his native country, but in England, the continental countries and Australia. At the end of a long, bitter but successful struggle, he may look with pardonable pride upon the accomplishment of one of his most cherished ambitions—the opening of one of the finest theatres in the world, built and equipped according to his own ideas of what the ideal playhouse should be.

Long before his arrival in New York as an unknown and unheralded young stage director, he had made a place for himself in San Francisco, where he had written and adapted fully a hundred plays for three or four stock companies with which he had been connected.

Mr. Belasco literally grew up in the theatre, and as a child was in the cast of "Metamora" with Edwin Forrest, "Pizarro" with Charles Keene, and in an early production of "East Lynne." He intended to be an actor, and as a young man acted juvenile parts with well known players, and later gave performances of "Hamlet" and "Richard III."

Mr. Belasco is said to have been a good actor and would probably have achieved fame in that field had he not been a greater playwright and director. What with barnstorming and playing in mining camps more or less remote from San Francisco with Annie Pixley, making shifts of all kinds, and experiencing every hardship imaginable incident to an itinerant actor's life, he finally obtained a place as prompter at the Baldwin Theatre, and in a short time was promoted to manager and stock dramatist. In addition to his duties at the Baldwin, he had charge of the artistic work of several of the other San Francisco theatres, and such was the demand for his services that he was compelled to make flying visits to Sacramento and other nearby towns to look after dramatic productions.

In a few years he had made a recognized place for himself on the coast and stood high in the esteem of the leading actors of the day, who had watched his rapid rise with sincere interest. He received several offers from Eastern managers, but it was not until Hearne took "Hearts of Oak" on an Eastern tour that Belasco visited for a brief time New York City. He had meanwhile written "La Belle Russe," which was to be produced in San Francisco, and had sent a copy of his play to Lester Wallack, who read and accepted it for New York. As it was to be presented on the Pacific coast it was arranged that Osmond Tearle and Gerald Eyre should go to San Francisco, play their parts there in order to get the benefit of Belasco's direction, and then return for the New York premiere of the play. The Western production proved a success, with Jeffreys Lewis in the leading part. Belasco came to New York after the close of the San Francisco run to stage the play here, and, with Rose Coghlan in the leading role, it duplicated the success it had made in the West, and proved the first real success since the opening of Wallack's with "The School for Scandal," Jan. 4, 1882.

Mr. Belasco returned to San Francisco, but upon the withdrawal of Mr. Mackaye from the position of stage director of the Madison Square Theatre, he accepted an offer from the Mallorys and was duly installed as stage director and stock dramatist at a salary of $35 per week. It was here that he subsequently produced his successful play of "May Blossom," the compensation for which, in addition to his salary, was $5 for each performance!

He had met with a cold reception. Many interested ones resented the importation of an unknown young man from the West, and his berth was anything but pleasant until Bronson Howard, then the foremost American dramatist, put the stamp of his approval on the work of the young stage director, and by his example effectively crushed the opposition which Belasco had encountered on every hand. Some time later Mr. Belasco collaborated with Mr. Howard, on "Baron Rudolph," for George S. Knight, and this open recognition of his ability by Howard gave Belasco his first footing in New York.

For Lester Wallack Belasco then wrote "Valerie," which he adapted from Sardou's "Fernande," and into which he had specially introduced a role for Wallack, which was the last new part ever played by the veteran actor.

About this time Steele Mackaye had completed the building of a new theatre, called the Lyceum, and secured Belasco to take charge of the stage, and it was here that Mr. Belasco first came into contact with Charles Frohman, then on the threshold of his career as a manager, and Henry C. De Mille, his future collaborator, who was play reader at the theatre. Helen Dauvray had appeared in one of Bronson Howard's "One of Our Girls," and a young comedian in the company had made a mild success. The young actor was E. H. Sothern, and it was decided to bring him out in a suitable play. For this purpose Belasco rewrote a play called "Trade," written by Madison Morton. How much of it was rewritten by Belasco before it saw the footlights under the title of "The Highest Bidder," may be judged by the fact that the famous stile scene, which developed Sothern as the ideal stage lover, was not in the original at all. The play proved the stepping stone for the young actor, and his next play was "Lord Chumley," in which Belasco collaborated with De Mille, and which served to establish Mr. Sothern firmly in the affection of the general public.

At the Lyceum the success of "Lord Chumley" was followed by "The Wife," by the same authors, which ran for a year, and was in turn followed by "The Charity Ball," also by the same authors.

For the opening of the Park, now the Herald Square Theatre, Belasco dramatized Adolf Belot's "Stranglers of Paris." It was presented with a great cast, including Harry Lee and Agnes Booth, and proved an instant success.

When Messrs. Frohman and Proctor secured control of the Twenty-third Street Theatre, they determined to open it with a Belasco play, and in collaboration with his former partner, he produced "Men and Women."

Maude Adams was then an unknown girl. Her mother and she had played in a stock company under Belasco's direction in San Francisco some time before. The daughter had casually appeared in some productions in New York, both mother and daughter were practically unknown to managers, and appealed to Belasco for an engagement. Accordingly he put her into the cast of "Men and Women," where she first came under the observation of Mr. Frohman, her present manager, and John Drew, in whose support she was subsequently prominent, before her starring days.

When the Empire was dedicated, the opening play was "The Girl I Left Behind Me," by Belasco and Franklyn Fyles.

Belasco then assisted William Gillette in writing "She," and later wrote "The Heart of Maryland," which he produced himself. His success in that venture is a matter of recent history. After a certain period he bought out the interest of those who had assisted him financially, and next produced "Zaza," which in the original French had met with scant success, but after the heroic treatment which Belasco bestowed upon the text, and after giving Zaza the touch of feminine sympathy, proved one of the greatest successes of the day.

After "Zaza" came "Du Barry," "The Darling of the Gods," "Adrea," "The Girl of the Golden West" and "The Rose of the Rancho," some of them collaborations. His efforts to make artistic productions enlisted the sympathy and support of the public, and after his first few ventures he found that he could depend upon the public for an appreciation of great things.

In addition to Blanche Bates he secured David Warfield, whom he had only seen in burlesque types in a music hall, but in whom he read with unerring and scrutinizing instinct the making of a great actor. In three years he developed Warfield into the greatest financial investment ever known in connection with the stage, and placed him at the head of American character actors; but the same delicate touch that had made every play passing through his hands a human document of simple emotions, was apparent here, and made "The Music Master" as appealing as "Madam Butterfly."

Personally, Mr. Belasco is endowed by nature with a genial disposition, not wholly unalloyed with the eccentricities of genius, and more particularly the peculiarities of an artistic temperament. He is easily approached, and in spite of the multiplicity of claims upon his time, seldom refuses an interview to persons with a legitimate cause.

Many prominent actors and actresses come to him for advice, young writers consult him for counsel and criticism. He chats pleasantly with all, and his simple, unaffected ways and ready sympathy rarely fail to make a deep impression on those who have only heard of him as a dramatist or manager.

He has written and adapted upward of two hundred plays. There must be a subtle literary quality in his works that makes them live, for some of his boyhood plays are still performed, and no stock company exists in this country that does not some time during the season, and frequently at recurring intervals, offer a Belasco play in its repertory.

After twenty-five years in New York he may look contentedly back upon his career, with an international reputation, with eight companies playing his dramas in all sections of the country and two leading theatres in the metropolis under his direct control.

The K. & T. Combination.

Prof. Kellar and Howard Thurston's combined performances have been meeting with great success, according to all reports. That the professor is thoroughly pleased with his partner is shown by his expressions during a recent interview.

Thurston is the author of many works on card manipulations, and Kellar said that he is the cleverest man in that line in the world to-day. He has qualities that money can not buy. He is young, energetic and has the advantage of all the advanced knowledge of to-day to start with. There is no reason, Mr. Kellar continued, why he should not be the greatest magician that ever lived. He is a dreamer, a student, a worker, and his new ideas are always good, giving promise of a most brilliant future for him.

Thurston will assume full charge of the Kellar show next season, under the management of Dudley McAdow, Kellar's manager for the past sixteen years. Mr. Kellar intends to retire after this season, and will establish his home at Erie, Pa.

Walter N. Lawrence News.

The annual tour of "Mrs. Temple's Telegram," under the direction of Walter N. Lawrence, will be inaugurated in Worcester, Mass., on Nov. 24. Prominent among the players will be Carl Anthony, Frances Gaunt and Alfred Hudson.

Laura Nelson Hall and the players who are to appear with her at the Madison Square Theatre in Rachel Crother's "The Coming of Mrs. Patrick," are now rehearsing. The second "Three of Us" company, in which Mabel Cameron plays the leading role, is now touring in California, and will soon invade Northwestern territory.

Wm. A. Brady's New Press Representative.

Rae D. Henkle has resigned as dramatic editor of The Cleveland Plain Dealer, to take charge of William A. Brady's press bureau.

THE MAGNETISM AND MASTERY OF Paul Cinquevalli.

The following, from "A Wanderer in London," written by E. V. Lucas, and published by Methuen & Co., London, Eng., is such a faithful pen picture of this remarkable artist and his art, that we feel pleased at the opportunity to reprint it. Mr. Lucas is a man of keen discernment, and he always handles his subject in a manner that clearly shows his thorough familiarity with it. He says:

"I would sit through an hour of rubbish (since one may talk and smoke, as one may not in any theatre) for five minutes of such a genius as Paul Cinquevalli; and him the Londoner may see, any night when he is in town, for sixpence or a shilling and have the honor of applauding the very Shakespeare of equilibrists.

"It is impossible to believe that greater skill and precision than Cinquevalli's will ever be attained. For my part I cannot think that we shall ever see accomplishment so great; but even if we do, I feel certain that it will lack the alliance of such charm and distinction. It is not merely that the incomparable Paul can instantly subjugate and endow with life every article of furniture that he touches: that in a moment billiard-balls run over his back like mice, billiard-cues assume the blind obedience of sheep; it is not only this, but take away his juggling genius and there will still remain a man of compelling, arresting charm, a man visibly and fascinatingly pre-eminent. 'Here is a power,' one says, immediately his lithe figure enters. 'Here is a power.' As it happens, he goes on to prove it by neutralizing the life work of Sir Isaac Newton with exquisite grace and lightheartedness; but were he to do nothing at all—were he merely to stand there—one would be conscious of a notable personality none the less.

"No one can enjoy watching a good conjurer more than I do—I mean a conjurer who produces things from nothing, not a practitioner with machinery—but a good juggler is even more interesting. The conjurer's hands alone are beautiful, whereas every line and movement of the juggler's body has grace. This at least is so with Cinquevalli. As I watched him last, Blake's lines kept recurring to me:

" 'What immortal hand or eye
Could frame thy fearful symmetry?'

Not that Paul is a tiger, or that the words are wholly appropriate; but the law of association is the only one which I never break, and I like to put some of its freakish manifestations on record, especially as fundamentally it always has reason.

"I suppose there has never been such mastery over matter as Paul Cinquevalli's. Like the great man and humorous artist that he is, he has deliberately set himself the most difficult tasks, one would have said the insuperable tasks. What, for example, is less tractable than a billiard-ball—a hard, round, polished, elusive thing, full of independence and original sin, that scarcely affords foothold for a fly, and often refuses to obey even John Roberts on a level table? But Cinquevalli will not only balance a billiard-ball on a cue, but will balance another ball on that, and will even run two together, one resting on the other, backwards and forwards between two parallel cues. This feat I am convinced is as much of a miracle as many of the things in which none of us believe. It is perfectly ridiculous, after seeing it performed by Cinquevalli, to come away with petty little doubts as to the unseen world. Everything has become possible.

"With Paul one may use the word 'perfection' quite comfortably, without fear of molestation. And I know I am right by an infallible test. Anything perfect moves me in the way that anything pathetic ought to do; and to watch Cinquevalli performing some of his feats is to be wrought upon to a curious and, perhaps, quite comic degree. 'You beauty! You beauty!' I have caught myself saying again and again as he conquered one difficulty after another with his charming ease. In talking about Cinquevalli to an artist—and a very level-headed artist, too—after the performance, he said, before I had mentioned this peculiarity of mine, 'I must go and see him again. But the odd thing about Cinquevalli is that he always makes me cry.' Then I confessed too; for after that I could have no shame in my emotion. Nor, indeed, had I before; for, to quote Blake again—

" 'A tear is an intellectual thing.' "

Mrs. Patrick Campbell's American Tour.

It has been arranged that Mrs. Patrick Campbell, who is to make another tour of the United States, under the managerial direction of Liebler & Co., will begin her American season in New York. During this engagement she will confine herself to a presentment of the plays she has made famous both here and abroad. George C. Tyler, of Liebler & Co., said in a recent interview:

"Mrs. Campbell will play a brief engagement of one week at the Lyric Theatre here, beginning Nov. 11, and during her stay will present her old time successes: 'The Second Mrs. Tanqueray,' 'The Notorious Mrs. Ebbsmith,' 'Magda' and 'Hedda Gabler.' Immediately upon the completion of the New York engagement Mrs. Campbell will take up her tour of the country from coast to coast. In the Spring, when the road tour has been finished, Mrs. Campbell will again be seen in New York for a protracted stay, and during this second engagement we will make for her productions of new plays, among which is to be numbered the new version of Euripides' 'Electra,' the presentation of which has previously been referred to. It is not possible at this time to state definitely just which of the four plays is to be used by Mrs. Campbell in her opening week at the Lyric, as that is a matter which Mrs. Campbell reserves for her own decision, but the announcement will be made later. Mrs. Campbell and her company will sail from Southampton Nov. 2, arriving here a week later. She will be accompanied by her daughter, Stella Patrick Campbell, who will make her first appearance upon the stage here. Ben Webster will be Mrs. Campbell's leading man during the American tour."

Odette Tyler and R. D. MacLean to Enter Vaudeville.

It is announced that Odette Tyler and her husband, R. D. MacLean, are to enter the vaudeville field with a new one act emotional play, written especially for them by Campbell MacCulloch.

The piece is described by the author as a melodrama in brief, and will enlist the services of four actors. "The Last Chance" was the title originally chosen, but this will probably be changed. The play will be set in the South during the Civil War.

Mr. MacLean and his wife are known outside of New York as co-stars in Shakespeare. In New York Miss Tyler is better known in modern comedy, her last appearances here having been made in Pepie's "The Love Route."

"The Great Divide" for Europe.

Henry Miller announced last week that "The Great Divide" is being translated into French, German, Italian and Spanish, and that he has made arrangements for its production in Paris, Berlin, Rome and Madrid, in addition to his own appearance in the play in London next Spring. All the adaptations are being made by Mr. Miller's son, Gilbert H. Miller.

SPECIAL ANNOUNCEMENT

During the past three years the Cartoon page in THE CLIPPER has become a very popular feature, which has been imitated by many theatrical publications, both in this country and in Europe. Our artist Mr. P. Richards, is under exclusive contract to confine his theatrical sketches to the columns of this paper. By his skillful methods he produces humorous cartoons of various acts without resorting to exaggerated features or to ridicule of any kind. Heretofore we have confined these sketches to those artists who appear in New York City, consequently many had to be omitted who rarely reach this metropolis, hence we have decided that in future we will make cartoons of all recognized members of the profession who will send us a photograph of their act, in make-up and costume. These will be numbered as received and published in consecutive order, without favoritism, as fast as possible. The page will contain twelve pictures each week, and the heading of the page will be "VAUDEVILLE FAVORITES IN CARICATURE" (this title having been copyrighted by P. Richards Jan. 26, 1903). Each picture will be accorded a fair display, and as the work will not appear in book form afterwards, it will be found advisable to preserve these pages from the beginning, as they will eventually form a unique collection of unusual interest and a valuable record of vaudeville of the present times.

For inserting the cartoons we make no charge whatever. Performers will be permitted to have cuts made from these caricatures, which will be useful for advertising purposes, the only stipulation we make being that all copies from these sketches must bear an inscription (in small lettering), "Reproduced from THE NEW YORK CLIPPER."

The superior work of Mr. Richards, who first introduced theatrical caricatures a quarter of a century ago, has received favorable recognition the world over, and bears the endorsement of all leading theatrical managers and standard newspapers. Address your photograph to Art Department of NEW YORK CLIPPER, 47 West 28th St., New York City.

The 200th Performance of "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch" at the Adelphi Theatre, London, Eng.

The following cable was received at the offices of Liebler & Co., New York, Tuesday night, Oct. 15: "Extraordinary manifestation at the Adelphi to-day. Occasion, Mrs. Cook's invitation matinee to 2,000 'Mrs. Wiggs' of London, to celebrate the 200th performance in London. Invitations distributed to deserving poor mothers by a committee of ninety-five clergymen. Astonishing scenes in the neighborhood of the theatre. Strand blocked between hours of one and two. At the conclusion of the performance Mrs. Cook addressed the audience amidst such enthusiasm as no member American company ever witnessed. Canon Horsly, of the Church of England, addressed the audience, pointing out the lesson of Mrs. Wiggs' genial philosophy, and urging the audience to give three cheers for the American company, which were heartily given The audience was taken by flashlight from the stage by The Daily Mirror."

New Theatre in Lancaster.

The Pennsylvania Amusement Co. has entered into possession of the Knapp property, Lancaster, Pa., in the second square of East King Street, for a consideration of $28,000.

The property has 70 feet frontage on East King Street, and has a depth of 252 feet, and is 80 feet in width. It is the intention of the new owners to reconstruct this portion of the building into an up-to-date apartment house. The rear will be reserved for the future erection of a theatre, where a high class stock company will be installed. The company, the new owners state, will be even stronger than the company which played so successful an engagement at the Family Theatre last season. When the theatre is erected, an archway, to be brilliantly illuminated, will be built from East King Street directly into the auditorium. Work will be begun in the very near future.

Sweely, Shipman Notes.

Gertrude Shipman, under the management of Ernest Shipman, opened her tour, in "Dorothy Vernon of Haddon Hall," at New Haven, Conn., on Monday night, Oct. 14, and was greeted by capacity audiences throughout the three days' engagement there.

Herbert Kelcey and Effie Shannon, after a week in nearby New England cities, opened their regular road tour at the Columbia Theatre, Washington, D. C., on Oct. 21. Mr. Shipman is traveling with this attraction, and reports that their new play, "Bridge," is a most pronounced hit, and that the supporting company is not only strong in the matter of people of prominence, but is giving a remarkably fine performance. The very elaborate production is also causing favorable comment.

Olga Roller for Paris.

Olga Roller has been signed by Henry W. Savage for his coming production in Paris, of "The Prince of Pilsen," and is the first girl to be engaged for a role in the Pixley-Luders comic opera for this engagement. Miss Roller is a daughter of Lewis Roller, a New York musician, her mother being a well known member of the New York artist colony. She is to have the role of the New York Girl, in which Camille Clifford scored in London.

E. D. Price to Leave Philadelphia.

E. D. Price drops out of the management of the Klaw & Erlanger house in Philadelphia, the Forrest, and Dan Fishell, who has been manager of the Garrick, St. Louis, will succeed him.

CHICAGO LETTER ADDITIONAL.

AFTERMATH.—Newell and Niblo write me from the Alhambra, Paris, Fr., that they have been doing exceptionally well there, even though they were on a hard place on the bill. They had Ireland and Scotland for the month of October, and will open at the Krystal Palace, Leipzig, Nov. 1, with two weeks to follow in Brussels. From there they return to England to fill return engagements over the Barrasford tour, commencing in April. They had offers to go to Madrid, Spain, and Lisbon, Portugal, but could not arrange their bookings that way. They still have their European headquarters with THE NEW YORK CLIPPER Bureau, at 14 Leicester Street, London.....Marvin Lee writes that his four song hits, written by Lee and Bestor for "The End of the Trail," have been making a big hit. Vernon E. Bestor has run in here from the West, and the partners are turning out some big songs for vaudeville headliners and big productions.....Pauline De Vere Litteral writes from Winnipeg, Canada, that she is playing with the Oleson Stock Co., at the Unique Theatre, and that the company is doing well.....Jack Burnett, "The Actwright," was married 7, in this city, to a non-professional, and will continue business at his office in the Grand Opera House Block. .....Jeff T. Branen and Evans Lloyd are home from their vaudeville tour, having met with great success, in featuring their songs. .....Charley Elliott is now manager of the Chicago company of "The Man of the Hour," and left, 7, to join the company in Duluth. .....L. E. Lund, manager of the Majestic Theatre, Indianapolis, will open that house with a stock company, 21, as vaudeville did not meet with success there. His representative was in town 7, engaging people for the company.....Rowland Buckstone, of E. H. Sothern's company, has been very ill with typhoid fever at the Virginia Hotel, this city, since Mr. Sothern closed his engagement here, but is now pronounced out of danger.....E. H. Sothern will play a return engagement in the Spring, at the Garrick, and will be seen in "Don Quixote," by Justin Huntley McCarthy..... English Ballets for Klaw & Erlanger.

Klaw & Erlanger will give the English ballets from the Alhambra and Empire Theatres, London, Eng., in conjunction with the regular bills of their vaudeville circuit.

A ballet is now being planned that will be typically American, telling the story of America's birth and development. Coryphees, or principal dancers, from the Empire and Alhambra will appear here in these dances. Mlle. Kate Laner will come to perfect the productions for American presentation. Lavator Lee, the clown at the London Hippodrome, will also be brought here.

Barnum & Bailey Season Ends.

The Barnum & Bailey Circus closed the season of 1907 at Dyersburg, Tenn., Thursday night, Oct. 17. The show then left for the Winter quarters at Bridgeport, Conn. The present season was almost uniformly profitable. The tour included the leading cities of the Middle West and Northwest, Kansas, Missouri, Oklahoma, Arkansas and Tennessee. Over 16,000 miles were covered.

Wm. Farnum for Vaudeville.

Alf. T. Wilton has booked time through the United Booking Offices for William Farnum, late of "Ben-Hur." Mr. Farnum has two sketches, by Paul Armstrong, "A Blaze of Glory" and "The Mirage."

Marie Dressler in London Vaudeville.

Marie Dressler will begin a brief engagement in vaudeville at the Palace Theatre, London, Eng., on Oct. 28, according to cable advices.

New Sketch to be Produced by Rolfe.

"The Leading Lady," by Sam Tauber, is the title of a new sketch shortly to be produced by B. A. Rolfe on the Keith & Proctor circuit. Six people are necessary for its interpretation, and rehearsals start this week. Several other acts are in preparation by the same management for early production.

Leslie Harris Booked for America.

Contracts have been signed between Leslie Harris, London's entertainer at the piano, and the J. B. Pond Lyceum Bureau, New York City, to bring Mr. Harris to America for a five months' tour, beginning early in January.

A Letter of Praise.

H. L. Goodwin, successor to S. J. Prescott's Booking Agency, Minneapolis, writes: "I received more answers to the little $2.00 ad. in THE OLD RELIABLE than all the rest of the theatrical papers combined, and I have advertised in all of them.

Antonio Pubillones in New York.

The Cuban circus proprietor will remain in New York for another week, completing arrangements for the season's tours of his shows.

NOTES.—Manager John Cort returned 7, greatly pleased with the success of his various attractions.....Mrs. Alexander Pantages, wife of Manager Pantages, an accomplished violinist, was the star of the bill, week of 6, at the Pantages.....The United States Amusement Co. (Lewis N. Rosenbaum & S. H. Friedlander) have sold the Odeon to the Imperial Amusement Co. (S. Morton Cohn, general manager), of Portland, Ore. It is said the house will be operated as a moving picture show hereafter.

Spokane.—At the Spokane (Dan L. Weaver, manager) "Checkers," with Hans Roberts, Dave Braham Jr., Stephanie Longfellow and Lydia Dickson, drew capacity Oct. 11-13. Sousa's Band played to the record business of the house 7, when 250 chairs were sold on the stage. Herbert L. Clarke's cornet solos were encored, and Lucy Anne Allen scored nicely in her singing. The big honors for the soloists went to Jeannette Powers, whose gifts as a violinist were brought out to their fullest in the Schubert numbers. She was recalled three times. The band numbers were applauded till Sousa played several of the old favorite marches. "A Message from Mars," 8, 9, had fair business, and Madame Maconda sang to an appreciative audience 10. "Raffles" 14, 15, "The Prince of Pilsen" 20-22, "In the Bishop's Carriage" 23, 24, Isabel Irving 25, "The Heir to the Hoorah" 26, "The Alaskan" week of 27.

PANTAGES' (E. Clarke Walker, manager).—Big business ruled the opening week of the house, beginning 7. The bill included: Tyson, Feenall and Tyson, Van Hoff, Drako's trained sheep and dogs, Leo White, La Zar and La Zar, La Velle and Grant, and the biograph.

VICTOR KREMER.

Victor Kremer is manager of the Victor Kremer Co. He was born in Mainz, Germany, in 1870. It is nine years since Mr. Kremer came forth as a music publisher, with rooms at 67 Clark Street, and put "We Are Ready," by James O'Dea and Alfred Solomon, on the market. Mr. Kremer secured the music selling concession at Omaha Exposition in 1898, and again at St. Louis Exposition, in 1903. In 1898 he took charge of the sheet music department at the Big Boston Store, presenting "Trust Him Not," "The Fortune Teller Said," "Because He Loves His Mother" and "Mid the Orange Trees and Blossoms She is Waiting," the latter selling over 200,000 copies. He later secured the music department in some large stores in Portland, Ore., Denver, New Orleans, St. Paul, Omaha and St. Joseph, Mo. "On a Moonlight Winter's Night" and "When the Lilacs Bloom Again" then met with popular approval. In 1905 the Hill, Horwitz and Bowers catalogue was bought. "The Way of the Cross" has met with great success since its early days. Popular instrumental numbers of the firm are: "The St. Louis Tickle," "Iolanthe," "Cinderella," "Northern Lights," "Paddy" and "Cannon Ball Rag." The New York office was opened in 1906, at 1431 Broadway, the Chicago office meanwhile having been moved to 59 Dearborn Street. With the increase in business, however, larger facilities were needed, and in May, 1907, Mr. Kremer took the 6,000 feet of space on the bank floor of the Marine Building, Chicago, corner of La Salle and Lake Streets, and changed to more commodious quarters in New York at 1416 Broadway, where Morris Silver is his representative. His recent popular successes include: "Under the Tropical Moon," "Not Because Your Hair is Curly," "Morning, Cy," "Good-Bye, Annie Laurie," "While You Are Mine," "A Cozy Flat," "There is No Time Like Night Time," "Is It Very Far to Heaven?" "Moonbeams and Dreams of You" and "Can You Keep a Secret?"

LYRIC (H. M. Miller, manager).—Week of 14: Lamont and Millham, Baker and Robinson, Jolly Roy Jones, La Toska, Phil W. and Nettie Peters, Lutz Bros., Lyroscope. Good business.

BIJOU THEATRE (L. M. Gorman, manager).—Week of 7: Zeda, Lorrett Twins Trio, John and Mae Burke, Mr. and Mrs. Swickard, John and Bertha Gleason and Fred Hooligan, Harry Earle, Godfrey and Veta Henderson, the Great Powell, the biograph. Excellent business rules. This theatre during the Summer was thoroughly done over and the capacity doubled. It was opened up Sept. 23, under the management of L. M. Gorman, for "advanced vaudeville," giving but two performances a day, at prices ranging from 15c. to 75c. On Oct. 9 a deal was closed in Chicago with Kimball Bros., whereby the theatre was sold to the Sullivan-Considine vaudeville combination, who have placed Frank Bradstreet in charge as manager. The new management have reduced the prices to 10c. and 15c., and increased the shows to three per day. The possession of this house in Lincoln will be of great advantage to the Sullivan-Considine Co., and will fill a void in their circuit of theatres. Mr. Gorman will not leave the city, but will devote his time to the management of his little Wonderland Theatre.

NEW HAMPSHIRE.

Manchester.—At the Park (John Stiles, manager) "Sapho," week of Oct. 14, by the stock company, had good business. "Where the Sun Sets" 21-26.

"The Cowboy Girl" 12, 13, "The Matinee Girl" 14, "Sis in New York" 19, Dixie Minstrels 20, 21, Thomas Jefferson 24, "Strongheart" 25, "A Woman of Mystery" 26.

BARNUM & BAILEY had packed tents at each performance 11.

Moving Pictures.

"HARBOR PIRATES" is the name of the latest Lubin sensation. "All on Account of a Lost Collar Button" tells a funny story a la Lubin.

"JACK THE KISSER" continues to be a big Edison feature in films with the principal shows. The Edison kinetoscopes present many new attractions for operators. "A Race for Millions," "The Rivals," "Stage Struck," and "Nine Lives of a Cat" are also late interesting subjects.

"THE TWO ORPHANS" are described in fascinating style by Pathe in their latest series of films. Other new prints are: "Wonderful Lion Killer," "Ice Cutting in Sweden," "Satan at Play," "A Quiet Hotel," "Burglary by Motor," "Her First Bike Ride" and "Pleasant Thoughts."

A TOTAL of 6,596 feet of Gaumont film is announced as the product for one week. The list includes: "The Adventures of a Bath Chair," "The Absent Minded Professor," "Onions Make People Weep," "The Irresistible Piano," "The Athletic Dude," "Floor Polisher," "The Thieving Umbrella," "Towed by an Automobile," "Who Has Stolen My Bicycle," "The Glue," "Smoke Without Fire," "A Four Year Old Heroine," "An Episode of the Paris Commune," "Volunteer's Betrothal" and "Naval Maneuvres."

"THE INQUISITIVE BOY" is the title of a new Vitagraph film, suggestive of trouble to come. The boy investigates the working apparatus of everything in reach, watches, chairs, bric-a-brac, etc., until he is discovered and spanked. "The Veiled Beauty" is the story of a "lemon." The lady with the veil is pursued by admirers, until she shocks them with the sight of a "map" too horrible for contemplation.

THE BIOGRAPH has discovered a new germ, and in the pictures entitled "The Love Microbe" the professor shoots it into the veins of sundry persons with startling effect.

"The Christian Pilgrim" Produced.

"The Christian Pilgrim," a dramatization of John Bunyan's immortal Pilgrim's Progress, was produced for the first time on any stage at the Garrick Theatre, Philadelphia, on Oct. 8. James McArthur is the author, and the play is in five acts and twelve scenes. The dramatization is more in the nature of a series of tableaux, depicting the journey of Christian from the City of Destruction to the Celestial Regions.

In the first act Christian is seen setting out upon his journey, bowed down by his burden. He falls asleep outside the City of Destruction, and in a vision beholds Satan presiding over the Valley of Tophet, and hears him charge his subjects with the obstacles that are to keep the pilgrim from reaching the City of Zion. When he wakes, Christian is terror-stricken, but is encouraged by Evangelist to keep on until he reaches the wicket gate, where Faith shall welcome him and lead him on. At the foot of the cross the burden is removed from his shoulders, and, cheered by angelic voices, he proceeds on his journey, accompanied by Faith. They come to the House Beautiful, where the Virgins give him refreshments and clothe him with the breastplate of righteousness, the helmet of salvation and the sword of the spirit. Christian continues on with Faith by his side, but loses sight of her before he comes to the Valley of the Shadow of Death, where he is beset by Appolyon Timorous and Mistrust. Almost yielding to despair he again summons Faith, when they proceed to Vanity Fair where he meets his old friend Faithful. Here they are assailed by a crowd of worldlings and excite the enmity of Lord Hategood and his subjects. They are tried by Hategood and false witnesses pronounce their guilt. Faithful is burned at the stake, but Christian escapes and goes on his way, joined by Hopeful. Both of them are captured by Giant Despair and cast into the dungeon of Doubting Castle.

Christian bethinks himself of the Key of Promise, which he carries, and by means of which they escape from the castle and go on until, exhausted, they fall asleep in the Enchanted Garden, where they are tempted by Wanton and her maidens. They are proof against their allurements and continue on until they arrive at the River of Death. Here Christian again falters, but gains courage and follows Hopeful into the waters. The final scene shows the Celestial City, with Christian and Hopeful ascending the steps of the throne, while a chorus sings a song of welcome.

There is a deep religious sentiment pervading the play, while the musical features by William Furst enter largely into the success of the production. Local critics agree that Henrietta Crosman enacts the leading role in a sincere and impressive manner, while Tyrone Power, who plays four different characters, gives most capable assistance. The scenic effects are superb, while the costuming is most gorgeous. Henry B. Harris and Maurice Campbell present it. The cast: Christian, Henrietta Crosman; Evangelist, Wm. T. Carleton; Lord Hatewell, Tyrone Power; Worldly Wiseman, Addison Pitt; Vain Glorious, M. Sullivan; Faith, Bertha Harmon; The Wanton, Corah Adams; Hopeful, Edward Mackey; Good Will, Mr. Roger.

New Theatre for the Chicago College of Music.

W. K. Ziegfeld, vice president and general manager of the Chicago Musical College, announces that a new building will be erected on the Michigan Boulevard for the college. This will be built by Heyworth-Russell and Cummings, and will contain, besides the class rooms, a large theatre, with a fully equipped stage. The ground upon which the biulding will stand is 80 by 172ft., and is owned by L. C. P. Freer estate.

It is reported that the lease will cover ninety-nine years at a rental of $8,000 annually for ten years; $12,000 annually for the next ten years, and $16,000 annually for the remainder of the lease. The approximate cost will be $500,000.

Doctor Florenz Ziegfeld, president of the college, founded it in 1867, and for the past nine years the classes have been taught in the present building, which adjoins the Fine Arts Building on Michigan Boulevard. The college has grown so steadily in the last few years that for some time the management has been on the watch for a good location where a building suitable to the demands could be erected. Dr. Ziegfeld is ably assisted in the management of the college by his two sons, Carl, secretary and treasurer; William K., vice-president and general manager, and R. Earle Smith, assistant manager.

Denman Thompson Gets Loving Cup.

Denman Thompson was presented with a loving cup by the members of his company last week. The cup is of plain silver, one foot and a half tall, with three handles, and has engraved on it:

"In loving remembrance of Denman Thompson's seventy-fourth birthday, by 'The Old Homestead' company, Oct. 15, 1907."

The members of the present company, besides the star, are: Horace Rushby, Charles H. Clark, Gus Kammerlee, Fred Clare, Frank Knapp, Roy Purviance, George L. Patch, Harry R. Webster, J. T. Calkins, Charles Ingoldsby, F. Kek Schillings, E. F. Cochran, P. Redmond, Louisa Morse, Annie Thompson, Anita L. Fowler, Laura Bradford, Margaret Boustead, Venie Thompson and Maude Pleasants. The tour is directed by Franklin Thompson, son of Denman Thompson. A. B. Meyers is business manager, and N. H. Batchelder, treasurer.

Mme. Kalich's Season Opens.

Mme. Bertha Kalich began her season on Oct. 14, at the Providence Opera House, Providence, R. I., in Percy Mackaye's three act tragedy, "Sappho and Phaon." The star, the author and the manager, Harrison Grey Fiske, were called before the curtain on the opening night. Reports say that the tragedy is most interesting, and the work of the star and her support won much favorable comment. Scenery, costumes and electrical effects are beautiful.

T. Daniel Frawley to Build Theatre in Oakland.

T. Daniel Frawley will build a new theatre in Oakland, Cal., with a seating capacity of 2,000. He has secured a twenty year lease on property on Sixteenth Street, between San Pablo and Telegraph Avenues, upon which the theatre will be erected.

The plans provide for a stage at the Sixteenth Street end of the building, with entrances from both Telegraph and San Pablo Avenues through wide arcades. Stores will be located on the ground floor. Work will be commenced at an early date.

Another Bernstein Play for Frohman.

Charles Frohman has secured the rights of producing in all English speaking countries the new play by Henry Bernstein, author of "The Thief," called "La Foudre," which will have its first production at the Renaissance Theatre, Paris. Mons. Guitry and Mme. La Bargy, who played the principal parts during the nine months' run of "The Thief" in Paris last season, will have the leading roles in the new play.

Jerome K. Jerome Here.

Jerome K. Jerome arrived in this country last week to rehearse Grace George in his new play, "Sylvia of the Letters." He will accompany Miss George on her tour, rehearsing her between performances. "Sylvia of the Letters" will have its first production at Norfolk, Va., Nov. 2.

"The Morals of Marcus" Produced.

A five act dramatic version of "The Morals of Marcus Ordeyne," by W. J. Locke, originally produced at the Garrick Theatre, London, Eng., Aug. 2, 1906, had its first American presentation at the Park Theatre, Boston, Mass., Oct. 7, as "The Morals of Marcus."

The story: Sir Marcus Ordeyne, a middle-aged baronet, with no taste for society, and a liking for research in renaissance literature, is astounded one evening, while seated in his garden, by the sudden appearance of a strangely elf-like, but beautiful little creature, who tells him a curious tale. She is the daughter of British parents, who live in Syria. Her father dying, her mother entered a Turkish harem. From there the girl (Carlotta) eloped with a young Englishman, who brought her to England, left her on a train, and for some unexplained reason committed suicide.

Not knowing what else to do, Sir Marcus takes her into his household, much to the indignation of his neighbors. The expected soon happens. Sir Marcus falls in love with the girl, but there is another and prior claimant for his affections, one Judith Mainwaring, for whom he cares little. She becomes jealous and persuades Sebastian Pasquale, a professional Lothario, to abduct Carlotta and marry her.

Pasquale entices the girl away, grows tired of her rather infantile charms, and leaves her. She returns to Sir Marcus, is finally forgiven, and the curtain falls. The play was handled very favorably by the Boston critics. Mario Doro played Carlotta, and scored a huge personal success. C. Aubrey Smith, as Sir Marcus, made a very favorable impression, and Beatrice Forbes Robertson gave a pleasing performance as Judith. The minor roles were in efficient hands. The cast: Sir Marcus Ordeyne, C. Aubrey Smith; Sebastian Pasquale, Ivo Dawson; Hamdi Effendi, Forrest Robinson; Stenson, William Evans; Bobby Tremlett, Alex. King Jr.; Carlotta, Marie Doro; Judith Mainwaring, Beatrice Forbes Robertson; Mrs. Odeyne, Mrs. Kate Meek; Dora Ordeyne Alice Neal; Mrs. McMurray, Mrs. J. P. West; Antoinette, Alice Gale; Lady Elmira Wynne Leonore Palmer; Miss Lestrange, Ethel Morrey; Maid, Eda Bruna.

Kelcey and Shannon Open Season.

Herbert Kelcey and Effie Shannon opened their season at New Rochelle, N. Y., on Monday evening, Oct. 14, in a new drama by Alicia Ramsey, entitled "Bridge." Miss Shannon made a personal success as Nora Fielding, a Bohemian who is transplanted to high society, and Mr. Kelcey did nicely as a kid glove "villain." Others in the company were: Edgar L. Davenport, Ruth Holt, Ruth Chester, Vida Croly, Eric Blind, Frank Kingdon and Edgar Montgomery. There was a cordial reception given play and players.

"Vicar of Wakefield" in Concert.

At the opening concert of the Art Society of the Carnegie Institute in Pittsburg, Pa., Oct. 15, David Bispham gave a concert version of the light romantic opera, "The Vicar of Wakefield," recently given in London. The story is founded on Goldsmith's novel, the lyrics are by Lawrence Housman, and the music by Liza Lehmann.

New Majestic, Johnstown, Pa., Opens.

The formal opening of the new Majestic Vaudeville Theatre, Johnstown, Pa., which has been in process of erection since last June, took place on Monday evening, Oct. 14. Holzman and Boyle have given to Johnstown a beautiful place of amusement. The new house was packed from pit to dome with a most appreciative audience. Among those present from out of town were Harry Davis and John P. Harris, of Pittsburg, and I. C. Mishler, of Altoona, who pronounced the new theatre a beauty and complete in every particular. After the dedicatory exercises, the following bill delighted the house: Mr. and Mrs. Gardner Crane, the Le Brun Grand Opera Trio, Nat Haines, Rosini Casselli's midget dogs, La Gardenia and Six Troubadours, Kelly and Kent, the Tom Jack Trio, and moving pictures.

The new house is situated on Main Street, near the central part of the city, and is a very imposing structure of brick, fronted by a combination of marble and brick in pillar and panel effect, beautifully designed. The entire eighty foot ground frontage is used as a commodious lobby and ticket office.

The interior is finished almost entirely in imperial red and white, excepting the proscenium, galleries, boxes and box-fronts, which are of an ivory and gold effect. The draperies are of red, with gold trimmings. The Chapman Decorative Co., of Philadelphia, are accredited with making this one of the most prettily decorated houses in the country. The seats are all done in red leather, and the carpets are all in red velvet. The curtain, furnished by the Imperial Curtain Co., of Philadelphia, is a particularly beautiful piece of painting, the subject being entitled "A Mozart Musicale."

The seating capacity is 1,545; first floor 630, balcony 380, gallery 475, boxes 60. The stage is 35 feet in width, with a 45 foot depth, and has a 65 foot drop. The lighting is very brilliantly arranged, giving the entire interior a most beautiful effect when illuminated. The orchestra consists of six pieces, led by Prof. Marquart, of Akron, O. Marshall & Fox, of Chicago, were the architects, and the entire affair is operated and owned by the Johnstown Theatre company. Thos. Holzman, president; M. J. Boyle, treasurer, and L. B. Cool, manager.

The William Morris Amusement Co. Adds a New House to Their Circuit.

The William Morris Amusement Co. has acquired the Nelson Theatre, Springfield, Mass., from Klaw & Erlanger, who opened it with advanced vaudeville Sept. 1. The new company assumed the management Oct. 14.

P. J. Casey, of the Morris forces, and at one time manager of the New Gilmore Theatre, Springfield, will have the general supervision of the house, spending a few days each week there. Chas. Davis will be resident manager. Popular prices prevail—ten and twenty cents, matinees, and ten, twenty and thirty, evenings.

Mlle. Rosa, Lion-Tamer, Hurt.

Mlle. Rosa, lion-tamer for the George Rollins Wild Animal shows, while exhibiting at the State fair, Atlanta, Ga., Oct. 12, in a cage containing lions, one of the animals tore her ankle and leg before she was able to extricate herself. Without a trace of fear she slowly made her way out of the cage and had her wounds dressed. She was painfully, although not seriously, injured.

Wm. Morris for Vaudeville.

William Morris, recently in "Mrs. Temple's Telegram," has decided to go into vaudeville. He will make his initial performance within a week or so in a social comedy in one act, entitled, "An Accidental Hero," by Frederick Fenn, author of Maude Adams's "'Op o' Me Thumb."

Tyler and MacLean for Vaudeville.

Odette Tyler and R. D. MacLean intend to go into vaudeville in a one act dramatic play by Campbell MacCulloch. Keith & Proctor will control their bookings.

JEAN HUNT DEMING writes: "I am meeting with unqualified success, being featured with the Franklin Stock Co., touring the South. I am also introducing several of the latest song hits."

MILWAUKEE

Vaudeville and Minstrel.

NED NELSON writes: "While playing the Star Theatre, Altoona, Pa., week of Sept. 30, we were entertained by the Altoona Aerie of Eagles, No. 286. The birds soared high until the wee sma' hours of the morning. Among those present were: The Silverman Bros., managers of the Star Theatre; Le Claire and West, Harris and West, Bovais, and myself."

NOTES FROM AUSTIN'S PALM GARDEN, Syracuse, N. Y.—The roster of company playing week ending Oct. 19 is: Sue Dale, Quinlan, and Howard, Nelley Zamman, Tom Irving, Haden and Hayse, Lula Yearton, and the new moving pictures. Business is good.

JULIAN AND PRICE, who recently finished twenty-two weeks for the National Vaudeville Association, are now enjoying a two weeks' vacation. Miss Julian is visiting relatives at Chicago, and Mr. Price is visiting at his home at Toledo, O. They are booked solid for the season.

MACKIE, MURPHY AND MACK have finished twelve weeks' engagement through the South, to good success. After week of Oct. 7, at Memphis, Tenn., they jumped to Cincinnati, O., and took a week's rest, and then they open for ten weeks through Pennsylvania and Ohio. Next season they go out in the musical farce comedy, "My Friend Finnigan," playing the principal character parts.

TOM AND GERTIE GRIMES, who are playing vaudeville dates, will shortly put out their own company, playing a repertory of musical comedies.

LOTTIE WEST SYMONDS, who recently underwent an operation at St. Vincent Hospital, Toledo, O., is recovering nicely and will soon be able to be about. Miss Symonds was compelled to cancel some good vaudeville time on account of her illness.

BARBER AND PALMER, after closing eight weeks C. E. Hodkins' Lyric circuit, and two weeks at Marion, Ill., open on the John Ammon's circuit, Oct. 21, at Frankfort, Ind.

BILLY LANG informs us that he is no longer connected with the team of Kennedy and Lang, they having dissolved partnership. Mr. Lang has joined hands with Joe Phillips, of Joe and Edith Phillips, and they are now with Jacobs & Jermon's Golden Crook Co., doing their specialty and playing parts.

AMY DEMARIA, who recently closed with the Payton Sisters' Co., is playing an engagement at the Lyric Theatre, Hot Springs, Ark., doing her dancing specialties and singing illustrated songs.

THE LENOX CLUB, of Brooklyn, held its twelfth annual vaudeville show Oct. 9, presenting an excellent bill, including Eddie Collins, late of "A Hot Old Time" Co.; Prof. Dunworth, in feats of magic; John J. Heaney, a monologist; Chas. Kelly and May Adams, in a comedy sketch; Fuller and Moran, Hebrew comedians; Wymans and Cassler, musical act, and Eddie Collins, in "Janitorism," which served to introduce Mr. Collins in his impersonation of Johnny Ray. This last act was the funniest act on the bill.

MILLIE DE LEON, the "Girl in Blue," played to capacity houses last week at the Standard Theatre, Cincinnati, O.

THE LE PELLETIERS played at Harlem Opera House, New York, Sunday, Oct. 13, presenting their act, written by Jack Bennett, which has been a great success elsewhere.

THE RAMSEY SISTERS AND BERT WIGGIN are booked up for the season by the Western Vaudeville Managers' Association. The two acts book in conjunction.

JACK SYDELL has fully recovered from his illness and will start out as manager of the New Mardi Gras Girls Co., which will open in the Eastern wheel houses about Nov. 21.

MR. AND MRS. ROBT. HYDE are participating in their annual hunting trip at Clifton, Ind. They style their present abode "Camp Rest."

DAINTY NETTIE FIELDS, who has been resting since last May, opens her season at the Chicago Opera House, Chicago, Oct. 28, and is booked solid.

J. W. HAMILTON AND MINERVA TRICE are a feature in their sketch with Howard McCarver's Big Southern Comedy Co.

SEELEY BLOSSOM, who is playing soubrette roles, and also working in the olio with her husband (Patsy Curtin), as members of Sam A. Scribner's Big Show, requests us to state that she is in no way connected with the act known as the Misses Blossom, who have been mentioned as members of the Rosey Posey Burlesquers.

CORA EVELYN, the girl with the baton, writes: "I was on the Scenic Temple circuit last week, playing Revere Beach, where my act was a decided hit. Waltham to follow."

VEDA, of the team of Veda and Quintarouw, was thrown from the revolving globe (on which he was working), recently, at Greenville, O., and broke his arm. The act will lay off in Cincinnati until Mr. Veda is able to resume work again, which will be in six or eight weeks.

JOE ECKEL AND MINNIE DU PREE report making a hit on Mozart's circuit as an extra feature act. They have the Keith & Proctor circuit to follow.

PEGGY LONG writes: "I have just closed a very successful season with Dr. W. E. Wrins, and am going home to visit my mother at North Vernon, Ind. I rejoin the company Nov. 1, and we go to California for the Winter."

KENNEDY AND BOYLE, "The Minstrel Boys," are in their sixth week with Guy Bros.' Minstrels. They report meeting with great success with their dancing act. The company is playing the New England States and Canada.

THE HUDSONS (Bert and Georgia), comedy sketch team, have just closed a very successful seventeen weeks' engagement with the Mulvey Comedy Co. They are now playing the Nickelodeons, in Chicago, and report making good.

WERNER AND WESTON ("Schultz and His Friend") report making a big hit in their fifteen minute Dutch comedy singing, dancing and talking act. They are booked for the season.

GRACE MANNING AND TOT YOUNG, after playing the Airdome circuit in Missouri and Kansas, opened at the Crystal, in Denver, Col., for Wm. A. Weston, Oct. 14, with the coast and Northwest to follow, which includes a circuit of thirty weeks' work.

BRADY AND MAHONEY, "The Two Hebrew Firemen," were made members of the T. M. A. order, at a special meeting held in Philadelphia, Sunday Oct. 6.

ETHEL CARTER is still confined to her home in this city with a badly sprained foot, but expects to be out in about two weeks, when rehearsals will begin for the new act, "Before the Concert." It is booked up until March.

ELLWOOD AND ELLWOOD write: "We are making quite a hit in our musical novelty, "The Picture Man." The newspapers of the West speak very highly of our act, and especially of Mr. Ellwood's lightning cartooning. At Brazil, Ind., Mr. Ellwood was initiated into the Brazil Aerie of Eagles, No. 274, and a sumptuous layout was given us. We are booked to the coast."

Broadway New York

World of Players.

NOTES FROM THE MAUDE HENDERSON ATTRACTIONS.—This company has been doing an excellent business since the regular season opened, week of Aug. 20. We have only had one week's lay off in three years, and that week was spent at Kenyon Lake, Mich., where Manager Wood and family entertained the entire company. We certainly did have one jolly good time, spending the greater part of the day fishing, and the evenings were spent in dancing and telling "stories." After the women retired, the boys would serenade around the tents singing sweet melodies, and not until the wee hours of morning dawned would they give themselves up to dreamland. This vacation will long be remembered by the members of this company. Roster is as follows: Jos. Parent, manager; Maude Henderson, E. N. Primrose, George Gray, Chas. Pinteux, Jack Mansfield, Henry Nolan, Jimmy Nolan, Baby Nolan, Anna Hughes and Georgia Swan. Six of the above members have bought lots at Portage Lake, Mich., where they will build in the Spring, and will be pleased to entertain their old friends in the profession.

THE ARINGTON COMEDIANS, with the Polmatier Sisters' Orchestra, played at Stanton, Nebr., fair week, to good business. The company includes twenty people.

THE MARVELOUS VADES, illusionist and juggler, and pianist and musical director, joined the Eastern Keystone Dramatic Co. at Washington, Pa., Oct. 6, in the capacity of vaudeville feature and musical director respectively.

ALICE MADILL joined "Nobody's Claim" Co. Oct. 6, to play the juvenile lead, in place of Violet Van, who closed Oct. 12, to accept an engagement with White's Stock Co., at Ben's Theatre, Escanaba, Mich.

JAMES T. CROWLEY, of the Omega Trio, who is principal comedian with H. W. & Sim Williams' Cat and Mouse musical comedy, says: "The piece is a howling success, and our act, 'Sweetie's Finish,' is one long scream."

NOTES FROM THE "DANIEL BOONE ON THE TRAIL" CO.—Warren Burrows, who plays the historical character of Blackfish, in this company, met with a painful accident at a recent performance of the play. During the action of the piece he has to thrust the heroine into a den of wolves. One of the animals, which are very fond of Miss Leslie, who plays the leading role, thought he was trying to injure her and seized Mr. Burrows by the right arm, inflicting a painful bite and tearing his sleeve to shreds. The wound is healing rapidly, and nothing more serious than a new sleeve for his coat is the result.

THE HUTTON-BAILEY STOCK CO. NOTES.—We number sixteen people, and are under the management of Geo. W. Bailey. The company is booked solid over the K. & E. time in the South. This company has been doing good business. Our repertory is as follows: "A Russian Nihilist," "The Power of Friendship," "Lost to the World," "Queen of the White Slaves," "The Little Princess," "Down the Trail," "Three of a Kind" and "Why She Was Sacrificed."

NOTES FROM L. E. GIDEON'S "HOTTEST COON IN DIXIE" CO.—This attraction played Portsmouth, N. H., Oct. 9, and the audience seemed more than pleased. The show is generally considered the best musical comedy since L. E. Gideon presented his big minstrel carnival. This company numbers thirty-five people, and is headed by one of America's celebrated singing comedians, Andrew A. Copeland. The specialties of the show are: The Lyons Trio, in a refined musical act; Billy Nichols, comedian and mimic; Henderson and Dotson, the two minstrel boys; the Dixie Comedy Four, and others worthy of being mentioned.

NOTES FROM the "Zeke, the Country Boy" Co., Con Allen, manager.—We are in our sixth week, and notwithstanding the warm weather we have struck in the blue grass country, business continues fine. This piece undoubtedly pleases the people, and the way it is staged and produced has made it one of the "money getters." Clean, bright specialties are interpolated by Leon and Bertie Allen and J. W. Carson. The roster remains the same as at the opening: Leon Allen, manager; L. B. Neate, treasurer; J. W. Carson, stage manager; Ralph Bailey, master mechanic; Charles Coons, Howard Stillman, T. J. Buckley, Bertie Allen, Josephine Bushnell, Madge Carson and Carrie Lee. Leon Neate is musical director.

NOTES FROM Hillman's Ideal Stock Co.—We are in our seventh week, and business has been phenomenal up to date. Last week, at the Brown Grand Theatre, at Concordia, Kan., the house was sold out from top to bottom four nights during the week, and many people were turned away at the door. Earl Brown is the manager of the new theatre, and all visiting shows will find their dealings with him a pleasure. The new theatre is thoroughly up-to-date, and one of the very best in the State. The roster of our company is as follows: F. P. Hillman, manager and proprietor; Edwin F. Powell, stage manager; Littleton Darnell, carpenter and electrician; Mel D. Newton, advance representative; Florence Newton, musical director; Eva Miller, treasurer; Lucy Hayes, Grace Hunter, Emma May Thayer, Clara Singer, D. McDermid, Otis Hunter, Herbert Thayer, Merle Hunter.

CLARENCE AUSKINGS and wife write that they closed at South Bend, Ind., on Oct. 12, with Ed. Doyle's Orpheum Stock Co. Nellie Auskings was doing character and Mr. Auskings was doing great work ahead of the company. They open at New Lexington, O., in July. They were with the Tom Marks Stock Co. for the last five years.

MANAGER SHADEL, of the Shadel Opera House, Williamstown, Pa., writes: "After a hard Summer's work, I have completed the alterations of my cozy little opera house. The interior has been done in two shades of light green, giving a very beautiful effect. New scenery, a new piano, and, in fact, with everything new, makes it one of the handsomest houses in the valley. I also wish to state that I am now sole owner and manager. We opened our season with J. L. Tempest's Coast Guards, and turned them away, as all seats were gone before the doors were opened. We have some very strong attractions booked, playing nothing but the best. Success to THE CLIPPER and all brother managers."

GUS LIVINGSTON, who has been doing "Foxy Grandpa" during the past Summer, at Luna Park, Coney Island, N. Y., for one of Thompson & Dundy's attractions, is with "Under Southern Skies" (Central) Co., playing Uncle Joshua. The company is under the management of Harry Doel Parker.

HERBERT DE GUERRE, who is in "A Bachelor's Honeymoon," under the management of Oaker & Gilson, writes: "The production seems to be doing a good business, and is giving excellent satisfaction in the middle West. I am making a decided hit with the show."

TIM MURPHY played Texas last week, to the largest receipts he has ever known outside the very largest cities, and established records locally second only to those of Irving, Mansfield and Bernhardt, on their widely separated visits to that territory, which Mr. Murphy plays annually. There was no advance beyond his usual dollar and a half scale. He is at present using "A Corner in Coffee" and "Two Men and a Girl."

BILLY COBURN informs us that he is in his tenth week with Aubrey Stock Co., and that his specialties are doing well and give satisfaction everywhere.

A Glance at Acts New to the Metropolis.

BY HANK.

Emmett Corrigan and his company gave a new comedy, in one act, entitled "His Wife's Picture," by Oliver White, at the 125th Street Theatre, last week, and unfolded a story that was far-fetched and lacked the interest necessary for a sketch of this kind. The plot is not a plausible one, and in its treatment there is too much talk and very little action.

Richard Randall is a bachelor, who loves Mrs. Monopol, once a footlight favorite. He has her picture on his mantel, and Mr. Monopol sends a detective to get the photo. Brooks, the detective, enters Randall's employ, and, while trying to secure the picture, Mrs. Monopol enters the apartment. She is followed shortly after by her husband, and Brooks, who has transferred his sympathies to Randall and Mrs. Monopol, secretes the wife in what he thinks is a room. Monopol raises a scene, and, finding a door locked, thinks that he will prevail upon Randall to give up his rooms for the night, and while Randall is absent he (Monopol) will investigate. Randall, much to Monopol's surprise, agrees to give him the rooms, but as he leaves he informs Monopol that the locked door leads out into a private hallway, which communicates with the elevator of the apartment. The curtain then falls as Monopol, beaten, sinks into a chair.

Mr. Corrigan does wonders with the poorly drawn character of Randall, and by the force of his personality, and not by the lines, got some laughs. Geo. C. Robinson, Marshall Farnum and Augusta True gave him as good aid as their respective roles would permit. The sketch runs about twenty minutes, on the full stage.

Charles Baron and Company.

It must tax the ingenuity of a trainer to the utmost when he comes to selecting some new ideas for an animal act, because the aim is always to get away from the beaten path, and the beaten path for animal acts is a wide and well traveled one. Charles Baron, however, has got a new idea, and his "Burlesque Menagerie," shown at the New York last week, made the audience "take notice" with a vengeance.

The dogs in this act are dressed up like lions and tigers, two Great Danes looking enough like big-maned lions, with their well-fitting headpieces, to be the real article. They are put through their paces in a cage made of rubber "bars," and then a dachshund, fixed up to resemble a crocodile, comes out on a tight rope.

Baron's cats, however, seemed to steal the big thunder of the act, and their tricks were all good ones. Four of them race up ropes to baskets suspended many feet above the stage, and their trainer conducted the affair like a horse race. The act was voted a winner, and a big one at that. It ran for eleven minutes, on the full stage.

Bradlee Martin and Company.

The farcical situations in Bradlee Martin's sketch, "Jessie, Jack and Jerry," seemed to appeal just in the right way to the audience at the One Hundred and Twenty-fifth Street Theatre last week, and the result was a laughing success for the players. The skit is down on the programme as a comedy, but it is crowded with absurdly farcical situations, and as it is well played, the fun gets to the audience unerringly.

Jeremiah Thurston is anxious that his son, Jack, shall marry Jessie Martin, and Jessie is equally anxious to marry Jack, but the stumbling block is Jack, who isn't in the game. Jessie, however, finally lands Jack by pretending to fall in love with his dad.

Bradlee Martin acted with sincerity and seriousness enough to get the burlesque of the thing, and the aid given him by John Bowers and Jessie Courtney was gilt edged. The act runs almost twenty minutes, on the full stage.

Baptiste and Franconi.

Two novelty equilibrists, Baptiste and Franconi, who are thoroughly entitled to the use of the word "novelty" in their billing, appeared at the New York last week, introducing feats of head balancing that are calculated to make even the New York vaudeville-goer stare.

They opened the act with some leaps to the head and shoulders that won applause, and then one of them descended a set of steps while balanced on his head, making the entire distance from top to bottom steps without once using any support from his hands. This feat is not new here, but it is none the less a clever one on that account.

Some of the other feats were novel, however, and the team made a hit. The act runs about seven minutes, in two.

The O'Neill Trio.

Three youths, composing the O'Neill Trio, who sing, dance and use the tambourine and bones, were at Pastor's last week, and the act seemed to strike the fancy of the audience. Their voices are not well trained, but their singing last week was applauded, and the dancing introduced was excellent.

The young men are neat dressers, and have a good stage presence. The tambourine accompaniment given by one of them to the piano and bone playing of the others was an effective bit of work, and the audience was not slow in rewarding it. The act runs about fourteen minutes, on the full stage.

A. B. C. D. Girls.

A singing and dancing act, called the A. B. C. D. Girls, with four neatly costumed young women, was presented at the Twenty-third Street Theatre last week, and was quite well liked. In the first part of the act three of the girls appear gowned alike, and the fourth is in bloomers. Their voices are by no means musical, nor do they blend well. The success of the specialty rests upon the dancing, which is good. The black and gold costumes that are worn at the finish are very pretty, and the girls leave the stage after winning applause for their dancing steps. The act runs thirteen minutes in one.

Mlle. Irma Lorraine.

"Studies of Art from the Leading Salons of Europe," is what Mlle. Irma Lorraine calls her offering, which she presented at Keith & Proctor's Fifty-eighth Street last week. The poses are all shown in bronze paint, and the greater number of them are given in the nude.

The selection of studies is very good, and only a few of them have previously been shown here. For the poses Mlle. Lorraine maintains such perfect control of all her muscles that the figures look like real bronze, and it is only when she bows her head in acknowledgment of the applause accorded the Statue of Liberty study that the audience is given visual proof that it is a flesh and blood subject who is doing the posing.

"Time" is one of the best of her repertory, although all are excellent, and the audience gave Mlle. Lorraine sufficient applause to show that her posing and her taste in selecting the subjects were high class. "Mazeppa," while a good picture in so far as Mazeppa was concerned, was a nightmare when the horse was considered. A new horse should be secured. A partial list of the studies follow: "Salambo," "Literature," "Truth," "Bacchanta," "Awakening of Galatea," "Farmer Maid," "Venus," "Statue of Liberty," "Psyche of the Bath," "Time," "Mazeppa."

The act runs a little over ten minutes, on the full stage.

Jim and Jenny Jee.

An act that for originality and cleverness would be hard to excel, was shown in the wire specialty of Jim and Jenny Jee, at the Union Square, last week. Jim Jee performs some leaping and somersault feats that are conspicuous for daring and finish, and the complete success that the offering made was a guarantee of its merit.

The man keeps step on the wire to the pretty music of "The Gondolier," and the woman then dances on the slender support to the accompaniment of the same tune. Then the man does some leaping over single chairs, and concludes that part of the offering by a sensational jump over six chairs, landing on the slack wire and maintaining his balance.

Bicycle riding up and down the wire and tricks on the wheel while it is delicately balanced then follow, and the act is ended by a whirlwind ride on a moving wire that is drawn swiftly over pulleys, on the same principle as the treadmill. The offering is one of the best of its class. It ran for about seventeen minutes, on the full stage.

Thomas Potter Dunne.

A varied line of entertainment was given by Thomas Potter Dunne at Pastor's last week, and he did everything so well that he held the stage for a full fifteen minutes and then had difficulty in taking leave of the audience.

Mr. Dunne opened his act with a song that came from "Fifty Miles from Boston," and was given "without an attempt to imitate Geo. M. Cohan," as Mr. Dunne explained. He then sang a yodling song along the lines made famous by J. K. Emmett, and upon winning applause for that number he gave the well known "I'm Selfish" speech from "The Music Master," catching the Warfield impersonation well.

His imitation of Nick Long, in the Italian recitation concerning the little girl Rosie and the flowers that her father secures for her grave, was capitally done, and earned him marked favor. The Italian song which closed the act was also a neat bit. Mr. Dunne got a fine reception, and deserved it. He does his specialty in one.

"A Morning Rehearsal."

Lee Harrison and his Broadway Girls appeared at the New York last week in a musical skit by John J. McNally, entitled "A Morning Rehearsal," which is produced under the direction of Joseph Hart.

The scene is the stage of a theatre, during a rehearsal, and Mr. Harrison, as Will Directem, hears the excuses of the wealthy and haughty young ladies who have consented to honor the chorus with their presence, and all of whom wander in late. This scene, with some funny excuses by the various girls, is the best portion of the sketch, and is well presented by Mr. Harrison and the girls.

Later the Clifton Comedy Four win success for their singing, and Mr. Harrison gives a few minutes talk and the "Sherlock Holmes" song, which served him in his single act. A patriotic finale, with the girls gowned in the red, white and blue, is applauded, but does not add to the merit of the offering. It would be vastly to the benefit of the skit if the early scenes were elaborated and the later portions cut. The full stage is used, and the act runs about twenty-five minutes.

Six Bonazettis.

An acrobatic act that has some very attractive features was the one shown by the Six Bonazettis at the Victoria last week. On Friday night there were only five in the act, for some reason not announced, but those of the Bonazettis who were on deck gave a clever specialty.

The three men and the woman acted as understanders to a slight youth who did some remarkable somersaulting from shoulder to shoulder, his feats being given with ease and grace. The woman sustained the combined weight of all her associates, who perched upon her head and arms, and as she was slight in appearance the feat was not an easy one.

The act is full of interest, and its conclusion is a strong one. It runs about eight minutes, on the full stage.

Lily Crowe.

Highland dances, given in costume, were presented at Pastor's last week, by a very tall and evidently very young performer, billed as Lily Crowe. She gave three dances, including a sailor's hornpipe, and was successful in illustrating the native manner of presenting the steps of the Scotch.

UTAH.

Salt Lake City.—At the Salt Lake (Geo. D. Pyper, manager) "The Alaskan" did good business week of Oct. 7. "The Yankee Regent" played to god houses 14-16. Maude Fealy 17-19.

OUR CHICAGO LETTER.

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.

Western Bureau of the N. Y. Clipper. 504 Ashland Block.

(For additional Chicago Letter see Page 684).

OCT. 19, 1907.

The week commencing Oct. 20 will be comparatively quiet, except for the further bombardment of the vaudeville houses under the opposing managements, which has caused quite a stir already, and has furnished several acts which have never been seen here before, and other valued ones, which have not been seen in years. Powers', with Wm. H. Crane, in "Father and the Boys," and the Great Northern are the only Loop houses which offers a change of bill, Thos. E. Shea succeeding musical comedy in the latter house.

ILLINOIS (Will J. Davis, manager).—Marie Cahill returned to town 13, to be greeted by a capacity house, and during the week played to fine business. She and Eugene Cowles and Mark Smith are about the only ones left of last year's cast, but the newcomers are clever, notably Nellie Lynch, as the maid. Miss Cahill scored immediately in her two new songs, the biggest success being "I Love You in My Dum—Dum—Dummy Way." William Collier comes 27.

POWERS' (Harry J. Powers, manager).—Lillian Russell, in "Wildfire," closed to splendid business, 19. William H. Crane opens 21, in the local premier of "Father and the Two Boys," George Ade's comedy. The engagement will possibly last four weeks. The company will include: Robert MacKay, Forrest Orr, Margaret Dale, Dan Collyer, Percy Brooke, Scott Dailey, Harry Dodd, Fred Sidney, Mary Faber and Ivy Troutman.

GARRICK (Herbert C. Duce, manager).—Eddie Foy continues in "The Orchid," but the original booking has been curtailed, and he will be succeeded, 27, by "The Secret Orchard." The company will include: Vincent Serrano, Edward R. Mawson, Walter Hale, Frank C. Bangs, F. Newton Lindo, Edwin See, Adelaide Prince, Josephine Victor, Olive May, Henrietta Vaders, Ida Lewis and Harry McAuliffe. Donald Robertson is meeting with great success in his matinees, at which he is presenting some of the classics in a splendid manner. His company is a painstaking one, and the presentations are made in an artistic manner.

COLONIAL (George W. Lederer, manager).—Victor Moore is continuing to capacity in "The Talk of New York," which is without doubt one of the brightest offerings ever seen here. The music is bright, the comedy clean, and the company is above reproach in every instance. The engagement is indefinite.

STUDEBAKER (Edward J. Sullivan, manager).—Wm. T. Hodge, in "The Man from Home," is playing to the best business this house has known in a long time, and the piece is an assured success. Manager Sullivan now announces that the box office is to be kept open twenty-four hours in the day, that purchasers may get seats at all times, so great has been the demand.

MCVICKER'S (George C. Warren, manager).—Chauncey Olcott has met with his usual success, in "O'Neill of Derry," and has played to fine business this week. He will remain for two more weeks, and will be succeeded 27, by "Forty-five Miuntes from Broadway," the company being headed by Emma Carus. This engagement will be for four weeks.

GRAND (Harry Askin, manager).—Montgomery and Stone, in "The Red Mill," continues to pack this house, but have only a short time to linger, as Robert B. Mantell is booked to follow Nov. 3. There is a rumor that the comedians will return after the first of the year to another house to take up the reins of success which they will be obliged to lay down here.

GREAT NORTHERN (Fred C. Eberts, manager).—"Piff! Paff!! Pouf!!!" played to good returns, and is succeeded 20, by Thomas E. Shea, in a list of his classic offerings, including: "The Bells," "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde" and "A Soldier of the Cross." "Wine, Woman and Song" follows for two weeks.

LA SALLE (Mort H. Singer, manager).—"The Girl Question" is playing to capacity right along, and is rounding out its first century in good shape. The piece is meeting with as much approval as any of its predecessors. The one hundredth performance will occur 1, when souvenirs will be distributed.

WHITNEY (Sam P. Gerson, manager).—"A Knight for a Day" is the same old, sweet story of success which it has been for eight months and more, and will probably live to see the season close and other successes go.

COLLEGE (Elizabeth Schober, manager).—Miss Schober, so long and well known as manager of Bush Temple, has succeeded Eugene McGillan as manager, and will make several changes in the company. It is understood that Colin Campbell will succeed Sedley Brown as stage director, and Jane Wheating will succeed Virginia Keating in the leads. Ann Bronaugh is the new ingenue. "The Girl I Left Behind Me" was given a capital production this week. "The Charity Ball" 21. Next, "The Cowboy and the Lady."

BUSH (Edwin L. Barker, manager).—"Drusa Wayne" was well received this week. "Fanchon, the Cricket," 21. "The Lady of Lyons" 28.

PEOPLE'S (Frank Beal, manager).—"Camille" was finely played this week, and the audiences greeted Marie Nelson, who made her reappearance after a long illness, as leading woman again. "The Halfbreed" 21, "The Parish Priest" 28.

HOWARD'S (Howard & Kilroy, managers).—The people in this locality showed this week very distinctly that they preferred cheap melodrama to high class vaudeville, and it is probable that the management will give them the former hereafter. The stock company, in "An Aristocratic Tramp," played to capacity all the week. "The Midnight Flyer" 21.

MARLOWE (Charles B. Marvin, manager).—"The Middleman" was finely staged and splendidly acted this week at this South side house. "Prince Karl" 21.

VIRGINIA (Paul D. Howse, manager).—This house is scheduled to open to-day, with four performances, to be given at 2, 4, 7.30 and 9:15 P. M. The building is situated at the corner of Halsted and Madison Streets, and has just been completed. The Sam Morris Musical Comedy Stock Co. will present tabloid musical comedy, sketches, vaudeville, playlets, and will include besides several principals, a good chorus. The prices will range from ten to thirty cents. The company includes: Sam Morris, George Lynn, Jessie Moseley and Irene Callinan. "Belinda's Beaux" is the opening attraction. In the vaudeville are: Seven Bedouin Arabs, Wild and Jennings, musical comedians; the Sunetaro Troupe of Japs, Brooks and Kingman, acrobats, and Fred Uppell, singer.

PEKIN (Robert T. Motts, manager).—Harrison Stewart returned to a fine welcome last Monday, and immediately started everyone laughing by his clever work in the offering, "Peanutville." Jerry Mills, Lawrence Chenault, H. D. Coleman, J. F. Morse, Lottie Grady and Nettie Lewis are some of the principals. There are half a dozen excellent catchy songs. J. Ed. Green produced the piece, and Billy Johnson staged the musical numbers.

HUMBOLDT (Powell & Cohn, managers).—"Deadwood Dick" played to good returns. "Caught in the Web" 20, "Slaves of the Orient" 27.

MAPLEWOOD (O. M. Neal, manager).—This house was opened with a stock company Monday evening, 14, with the company under the direction of Albert West, in "East Lynne." The theatre is situated at the corner of North Rockwell and Marianna Streets, and seats 800. Matinees will be given Wednesdays, Saturdays and Sundays. The company includes: Albert West, Maud Bennett, Fred J. Powers, George Wallis, Fred C. Lewis, George Glenwallis, Diane Ost, Regina Lewis, and Alice Gerbing. Vaudeville and moving pictures are given between the acts. "Fanchon, the Cricket," 21. The business staff: Laura Ost, treasurer; E. M. Barnabee, musical director; W. H. Marsh, advertising agent; Albert West, stage manager; Frederick Johnson, chief usher; Harry F. Jerguson, electrician.

ACADEMY (Wm. Roche, manager).—"Bedford's Hope" was a winner this week, and the houses were big. "Across the Continent" 20. "Parted on Her Bridal Tour" 27.

BIJOU (William Roche, manager).—"The Phantom Detective" did well at this house, and played to enthusiastic audiences. Martin's "Uncle Tom's Cabin" will please thousands during week of 20. "The Great Wall Street Mystery" follows.

CRITERION (John B. Hogan, manager).—"Pan Handle Pete" delighted good crowds this week. "Nellie, the Beautiful Cloak Model," week of 20: the Four Huntings, in "The Fool House," 27.

COLUMBUS (Weber Bros., managers).—The Four Huntings, in "The Fool House," caused plenty of laughs, and the company was a good one. "The Great Wall Street Mystery" 20. Harry Clay Blaney 27.

ALHAMBRA (Weber Bros., managers).—"Across the Continent" was played to good returns this week. "The Phantom Detective" always draws good houses in this city, and comes 20. "Our Friend Fritz" 27.

CALUMET (John T. Connors, manager).—"The End of the Trail" and Martin's "Uncle Tom's Cabin" divided a week of capacity business. "Panhandle Pete" and "In Gay New York" week of 20, "Nellie, the Beautiful Cloak Model" and "The Card King of the Coast" 27 and week.

EUSON'S (Sid J. Euson, manager).—The Boston Belles played to enthusiastic crowds this week. Rice & Barton's Co., with Charlie

WHOLE FAMILY CURED

Of Eczema, Heat Rash, and Falling Hair—Different Ones Troubled.

CUTICURA PROVES INVALUABLE.

"My wife had eczema on her face for five or six years. We had read so much about Cuticura Remedies that we thought we would give them a trial. We did so, and it has now been about four years, and she has never had a sign of eczema since. I myself used Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment some time ago for falling hair. I now have a very heavy head of hair and it does not fall out. We used Cuticura Remedies for our baby, who was nearly bald when young. She has very nice hair now. She is very fleshy, and we had so much trouble with heat that we would bathe her with Cuticura Soap and then apply Cuticura Ointment, it would dry the heat up so much quicker than anything else. Mr. H. B. Springmire, 323 So. Capital St., Iowa City, Ia., July 16, 1905, and Sept. 16, 1906."

Barton at the head, will open 20, and the fat comedian has a large following here. "Broadway After Twelve" and "The Red Light District" will be the burlesques, and the company will include a fine female chorus, together with twelve comedians of both sexes. The olio will include: Bert Baker, Clynn, Miller and Hunt, McKee and Van, Pierce and Maizee, Mildred Gilmore, and twelve French dancers. The Lid Lifters 27.

FOLLY (John A. Fennessy, manager).—The Yankee Doodle Girls played jinks galore this week, and the company was well liked. The Merry Makers is the offering 20, and the company includes: Walter A. Wolf, La Belle Marie, M. J. O'Rourke, George and Streeter company, and a large company of girls and comedians in a clever burlesque. Rollicking Girls 27.

TROCADERO (L. M. Weingarten, manager).—The High Rollers rolled time and care away during the week. The Blue Ribbon Burlesquers, an organization which always plays to good business, is here 20 and week. The company includes many comedians, singers, dancers, a fine olio, and the latest songs and specialties will be introduced. The Girls from Happyland 27.

EMPIRE (William Singer, manager).—The Lady Birds did the usual good business here this week. The New Century Girls, week of 20, in which are a fine lot of people well and favorably known to the burlesque world, who will entertain with the latest and best known methods, ranging from mirth and melody in the burlesque part, to excellent acts in the olio. The Washington Society Girls 27.

LONDON DIME MUSEUM (William J. Sweeney, manager).—Business is booming along in fine shape these days. The following are in the curio hall: Pamplin, juggler; Hewson, contortionist; Veno, magician; Carson's Monkey Circus, and Susie Carsello, one woman band. In the theatre: Alice Clark, May Horton, Madge Martley, and moving pictures.

CLARK STREET MUSEUM (L. M. Hedges, manager).—Business is picking up steadily here, and since the opening of the season the crowds have seen many fine freaks and curios, and the management does everything to please its public.

OUR LONDON LETTER.

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.

Clipper Bureau,
14 Leicester Street,
Leicester Square,
London, W. C.
OCT. 12, 1907.

Five important productions and two new theatres opened—such is the splendid record of the week. But for the illness of Mary Moore there would have been the first performance of "The Mollusc," at the Criterion to add. Happily, the actress' indisposition is slight. Next week, will restore the debonair, delightful Charles Wyndham to our stage—to the especial stage he so long adorned. With the ample fortune made at the Criterion Mr. Wyndham built Wyndham's Theatre, then the New Theatre. But both these handsome houses have other tenants now, and the actor is in his old home again. There are but four characters in Hubert Henry Davies' new play. Cast: Tom Kemp, Charles Wyndham; Mr. Baxter, Sam Sothern; Miss Roberts, Ella Inescott; Mrs. Baxter, Mary Moore. And there is only one scene, a sitting-room in the Baxters' house. "The Mollusc" will be preceded by "Concerning the Countess," a one act play, in which George Giddens will appear.

"As You Like It" never displeases. Oscar Asche's revival of the charming comedy at His Majesty's Theatre is, in scholarship, and in the reckoning with popularity, worthy of the traditions of the theatre, in which Beerbohm Tree has done such good work for the culture of Shakespeare. The scenery and the costumes are picturesque, Mr. Asche being careful, as he always is, not to overload the production. Lily Brayton has seldom been more successful than she is as Rosalind. Henry Ainley is an agreeable Orlando. Oscar Asche makes Jacques an old man who has seen a good deal of life ere settling down regretfully to the life of the forest. Courtice Pounds seems likely to be as successful a comedian "with song" as he used to be an opera vocalist. Ditties from various other plays of Shakespeare are introduced. Marianne Caldwell justifies her promotion to the character of Audrey. Muriel Ashwynne is a pleasant Celia. Mr. Asche promises a new performance of "Othello," too.

"Les Cloches de Corneville" is commonly cited as the most popular opera bouffe of its decade. Its composer, Planquette, was a writer of songs for the Cafe Chantant, and had great trouble in getting a hearing for the opera, which made him famous. In Paris the music did the trick; in London a curious thing happened. Shiel Barry, an Irish comedian, was casually entrusted with the character of Gaspard, the miser. A sudden cold deprived him of his voice, and failure was confidently expected. But, instead of making Gaspard a "comic old man," Barry went for lurid melodrama. His guttural voice increased the effect, and "Les Cloches de Corneville" ran for years. There were, it should be added, many charming singers in the cast from time to time. As a ballet, produced at the London Alhambra, on Monday, "Les Cloches de Corneville" proves to be as picturesque and as charming as ever. A spectacular finale is achieved by a great parade of steel clad knights of the haunted chateau, with delightful Bordin dancing in their midst as the Spirit of the Bells.

By common consent the new Queen's Theatre is the prettiest house in town. It stands on Shaftesbury Avenue, forming a row with the Lyric, the Apollo and the Hicks. E. J. Vedrenne, who is given to the exploitation of the eccentric rather than the conventional drama, has a long lease of the house, but in the mean time he has let it to Herbert Sleath, who on Tuesday presented his wife, Ellis Jeffreys in a comedy of the pretty-pretty order, called "The Sugar Bowl," by Madeline Lucette Ryley. Miss Jeffreys figures as an aristocratic girl, whose mother has vainly put her on the marriage market for seven or eight years. So Grace Pemberton philosophically determines to try no more—to become a contented old maid. But she thinks she would like to have a good time first, so she enters into a compact with an elderly diplomatist, Sir Basil Loring, to pretend to be her courtier for the space of a month, the result being to bring all the backward young men 'round her, like flies swarming a sugar bowl. In the end Sir Basil (played by Frederick Kerr) finds that he is really in love. The Queen's Theatre holds 1,200 people.

There is a little romance attaching to the production of "Irene Wycherley" by Lena Ashwell, at the Kingsway Theatre, which is practically a new house, fashioned from the forlorn Novelty Theatre. When Miss Ashwell was playing in "Leah Kleschna" a young merchant came to town from Dublin; and, much admiring the actress, asked if he might send her a play. Miss Ashwell agreed, and received a one act piece which she still holds. But she wrote to Mr. "Anthony P. Wharton," suggesting that he might have in him a piece that would occupy the whole evening in performance. The result was "Irene Wycherley," which was produced on Wednesday night, and is the town's talk. It has lost nothing because the critics of all the Harmsworth papers were ordered to dismiss it in ten lines as "improper." The fact is that "Irene Wycherley" has some terribly realistic passages; but they are conceivably lifelike, and go to make up one of the most powerful and impressive plays of modern times.

Irene was married to a blackguard of a good family, Phillip Wycherley. He outraged her and beat her; she left him and lived alone, happy and respected. When her faithful friend, Harry Chesterton, broke out into an avowal of love, she was in part distressed, and in part delighted. At this juncture her father-in-law, Sir Peter Wycherley, appeared on the scene with the news that her husband had been horribly maimed while shooting. He was blind. Irene's clear duty, Sir Peter said, was to return to her husband. She did so, suffering terribly in contact with the helpless, but still unutterably evil man. There had, in truth, been no accident. Phillips' wounds were deliberately caused by his friend Summers, who, believing that he had married a pure woman, made the appalling discovery that his wife had been Wycherley's mistress. When the tension of Irene's new life with her husband had become intolerable to the breaking point, Summers returned to the attack, and "this time made no mistake," as grim old Sir Peter Wycherley remarked, rightly interpreting two revolver shots "heard without," as murder and suicide. It is a weird, interesting, finely written play, scenes of crude animalism and lurid melodrama breaking fitfully through the surface of a society drama. Miss Ashwell is superb, and the Phillip Wycherley of Norman McKinnell is a masterpiece, though extremely unpleasant.

When Marie Tempest, having ruled for years as queen of comic opera, decided to become an actress au serieu, her best friends had misgivings; but each succeeding performance increases Miss Tempest's justification. "The Barrier," by Alfred Sutro, in which Charles Frohman presented her, on Thursday night, in succession to "The Truth," owes nothing in the way of "comic relief" to Miss Tempest. The case of the heroine is wholly pathetic. For comedy the author depends on the antics of a decayed duke, who is the perpetual guest of a merchant prince. The amicable amenities of the simple minded old nobleman, with his cages of canaries, and his quotations from the classics, and the vulgar, kind hearted old universal store keeper become rather wearisome. Marie Tempest figures as Maggie Verrall, a popular actress, with whom the duke's son, Lord Ronald Dumaray, fell desperately in love. A duke in such circumstances could hardly, one thinks, be very particular in his requirements. But, before Lord Ronald's engagement could be approved, Maggie must be submitted to the queer caravansery of duke and storekeeper. She captivated them all. Then arrived from South Africa one Mr. Maurillier, acknowledged suitor for the hand of the duke's younger daughter, who hated him, but was, by way, a being sold into bondage. Said Maggie Verrak, "If you persist, I will throw you down, as you know I can." Maurillier retorted, "Unless you further my suit with Lady Alma, I will declare that you were my mistress." It was long ago, and Maggie was an innocent victim. She mustered her courage, saved Lady Alma from a scamp, and so far from alienating the duke by this revelation of a past, won his greater regard. But she lost her boy sweetheart, for Lord Ronald could not conceal the fatal wound the revelation of the story had inflicted on his heart. There is a powerful and interesting last act, in which it appears that Maggie's resort is to win back an elderly, faithful-dog-kind of lover whom she had treated with thoughtless tyranny, but who resentfully admits that he will probably give way. Marie Tempest, as Maggie Verral; A. E. Matthews, as Lord Ronald; Eric Lewis, as the Duke; E. A. Anson, as Maurellier, and Allan Aynesworth, as the elderly lover, are all excellent.

"Sweet Kitty Bellairs" is well known to us in the way of a novel—Egerton Castle's "Bath comedy;" to you as a play, already. It made a great hit at the Haymarket Theatre on Saturday of last week. It was beautifully done, so far as scenery and costume are concerned, and Eva Moore was held to have done nothing better than fascinating, faithful, sadly misunderstood Kitty, who risks her reputation and nearly loses a lover to save her silly friend. Also in the cast, playing with distinguished success, are Henry Neville, Louis Calvert, Ellie Norwood, Owen Roughwood and Neta Faydon.

There have been two important productions on the road. At Manchester, on Monday, Arthur Bourchier did "Simple Simon," by Murray Carson and Nora Keith, meaning in due course to install the play at the Garrick Theatre, when he presently comes home; and in Dublin Beerbohm Tree produced "The Beloved Vagabond," which he has adapted from his own very popular novel.

"Simple Simon" is an effective play, affording Mr. Bourchier and his brilliant wife, Violet Vanbrugh, opportunities of which they avail themselves to the full. But the material is familiar. Simon is a great financier, who marries a society woman for love—she is induced to the contract by the desire for wealth and position. With difficulty she abandons a kind of engagement with a poor man in her own class. After marriage she begins to love her husband—at length, passionately. But Simon gradually learns the truth about the early days, becomes morose and suspicious, till the pair are definitely estranged. Financial trouble overtakes Simon. Then it is his wife's devotion that solaces him: the sacrifice of her settlements that saves him. And so, a happy ending.

Dublin hailed "The Beloved Vagabond" with shouts of delight, and Mr. Tree is declared to have done nothing better than his portrayal of the Bohemian—learned, brilliant, humorous; artist philosopher, musician, gentleman and good fellow—whom Locke drew so charmingly. The story is—if the reminder be necessary—that Gaston de Nerac, to save the father of his lady love from disgrace and financial ruin, allows himself to be dismissed by the Lady Joanna as a drunkard; and, as Paragot, becomes a wanderer on the face of the earth. So Lady Joanna is set free to marry the millionaire who "bought off" Gaston, but, in the play, is restored to her true lover.

George Alexander, who is now on the road with Pinero's play, "His House in Order," returns to town next week. He will quickly get to work on rehearsals of "The Thief," which Cosmo Gordon Lennox has adapted for him from Henry Bernstein's play, "Le Voleur." In the production, at the St. James Theatre, Irene Vanbrugh and Lillian Braithwaite will assist. Mr. Lennox, who is a member of an aristocratic family, and has apparently abandoned acting in favor of playwriting. He has an especial aptitude in adaptation. He is the husband of Marie Tempest. Mr. Lennox is just now doing "Miquette," by Robert de Flers and G. de Caillavet, into English for Charles Frohman. It will shortly be produced at the Duke of York's Theatre, with Pauline Chase in a prominent part.

Annie Hughes was invited by J. K. Hackett to take part in his New York production of "Public Opinion," but her engagements on this side stood in the way.

Tom E. Murray goes to the Prince's Theatre, Bristol, for pantomime.

Fanny Brough, the brilliant comic actress, of Drury Lane, says no woman should remain on the stage after forty—not so long, if she looks her age.

May De Sousa, who has been absent from the cast of "The Girls of Gottenberg," at the Gaiety, has returned.

Frank Curzon contemplates a series of afternoon performances, by children, of "Miss Hook of Holland," at the Prince of Wales Theatre, during the Christmas season.

There is an assessment of members of the Actor's Association, to put that unfortunate institution on its feet. Edward Terry has made the association a present of the mortgage bonds he holds.

Birthday greetings are due to Marion Terry and Mabel Love on Wednesday next.

Happy Fanny Fields will appear in "Aladdin," the pantomime which Robert Arthur, one of our big country managers, will produce at the Adelphi at Christmas.

WE HAVE

"Hungary in London" is to be the name of next year's exhibition at Earl's Court.

Mrs. Oscar Lewisohn, who used to be Edna May, gave a dinner party, in celebration of her birthday last week, at her country home, Torwood, Ascot.

Edward Moss' wife has been very ill, but is recovering now.

Maxine Elliott must finish the run of "Under the Greenwood Tree," at the Lyric, on Nov. 2, in order to return to America.

Edward Compton's season at the St. James Theatre ends on Nov. 2. He will play "The School for Scandal" all the mean time.

Stephen Phillips, the actor-poet, has nearly completed a version of "Faust" for George Alexander, who used to play with Irving in this piece in the old days.

Edward Grime, popular as an opera singer throughout Ireland, is dead.

Poor old Shakespeare has another attack to face. J. C. Nicol, a schoolmaster in a London suburb, has worked out a cipher which proves conclusively (to Nicol) that the plays and poems were all written by Shakespeare's patron and friend, the Earl of Southampton. What is more to the point, Nicol says he can lay his hand on the original manuscripts. That would be very useful.

When "The Gay Gordons" has run out at the Aldwych Theatre, Chas. Frohman means to transport the production, stock, lock and barrel, including Seymour Hicks and Ellaline Terriss, to the Knickerbocker Theatre, New York, afterward visiting Boston, Washington, Chicago and Philadelphia.

Those brilliant cyclists, the Jacksons, are making good everywhere.

Sam Elton is a popular contributor to the Alhambra's programme.

Alf. Meers is bound for America immediately. He has broken off negotiations for pantomime in Australia.

For a long time past the Keith people in London have been annoyed by intimations that a person passing himself off as a son of B. F. Keith had obtained money from Americans visiting London, or from Englishmen to whom engagements were offered. It is believed that quite a number of scamps have tried the game. One of them, at any rate, was brought to book in the Westminster (London) police court yesterday. He is a young actor, by name George O'Connor. He advertised for a theatrical secretary-manager, demanding a deposit from the respondents to his advertisement. He used note paper laying out the Keith enterprises at the top, and indicating himself as Edward Clement Keith. O'Connor pleaded guilty, and it was represented to the court that the disposition of the prosecution was rather to stop the nuisance than to be vindictive. So O'Connor was put away for three months, which may suggest the unwisdom of trading on the charitable and the stage struck in this barefaced manner.

Walford Bodie, the medicine man, announces that the refusal of English managers to cancel his dates, has necessitated a postponement of his visit to America.

Tom Maguire, the blind song writer, who was lately held by the police for concertina playing on the street, owes a few engagements in vaudeville to the publicity which his sad case secured.

Albert Hyman, a member of the family running the South Africa music halls, has reached town from Johannesburg.

More than $2,000 has been divided among the local and the professional charities as a result of the theatrical affair lately held in Liverpool.

Burt Sheppard, the comedian at the piano, comes to you on Saturday next. His plans are indefinite.

Kronan's "Boys in Blue" sail for New York immediately. They have two years' work. Then they return to Europe, opening in Paris for six months.

A large party of the municipal councilors, of Paris, lately visited London. A gala performance was organized for their entertainment at the Palace Theatre on Tuesday, an interesting feature of the performance being motion pictures of the councillors' course during the day.

Newcomers to the Empire Theatre on Monday are: The Campbell and Johnson trio of American cyclists.

W. H. Patterson, who used to tour the English provinces with "Si Slocum" and "Winona, the Sioux Queen," is dead. He had been in the business more than fifty years as actor, clown, swordsman, man monkey and dog trainer.

RHODE ISLAND.

Providence.—At the Providence Opera House (Felix R. Wendelschaefer, manager) week of Oct. 14 was devoted to the first production of Percy Mackaye's new poetic drama, "Sappho and Phaon," under the personal supervision of Harrison Grey Fiske. Local critics pronounced the play good of its kind. "The Lady from Lane's" 21-23, and Providence amateurs produce "Hamlet" 24-26, for the benefit of charity; "The Three of Us" 28-30, Puccini's "Madam Butterfly" Nov. 4.

EMPIRE (Spitz & Nathanson, managers).—"Dorothy Vernon of Haddon Hall" pleased good houses the week of 14. "The Cowboy and the Squaw" 21, "King Casey" 28.

BIJOU (Geo. Shafer, manager).—Bill for week ending 19 gave good satisfaction. Bill for week of 21: Elizabeth Miller, the Midgleys, Williams and Healey, the Alton Trio, Russell Grosse, Piercy and Fulda, Tom Lancaster, Crotty Trio, J. H. O'Neill and company, and the moving pictures.

PENNSYLVANIA.

Philadelphia.—The popularity of moving picture shows is best illustrated by the fact that there are now 116 such establishments in this city, with new ones starting up daily, and with all of them apparently doing profitable business. The fight between the Market Street business men and the moving picture managers assumed a more belligerent attitude last week. Both sides engaged counsel, and the city authorities will now take a hand in the dispute. City council at its next meeting will grapple with the problem. The ordinance will provide that each place shall pay an annual license of $50; that the fire marshal shall certify that he approves of the location, and that all persons operating moving picture machines shall pass an examination held by the board of experts and be granted a license upon the payment of a fee of $5.

GARRICK (Frank Howe Jr., manager).—Richard Carle, in "The Spring Chicken," comes 21, for two weeks. "The Christian Pilgrim" departed 19, after two weeks of average good business.

The Vaudeville Situation in Chicago.

A week has passed since the first big gun of the Klaw & Erlanger forces was fired from the stage of the Auditorium, Chicago, and the crowd of people still continues in front of the three box offices. A glance at the bill offered for the first week shows nearly every act to be a headliner, commencing with Vesta Victoria, who, with Karno's Co., and Ida Fuller, have been retained for the second week.

One of the arguments offered by the K. & E. forces for their bill was that no "tiresome sketches" would be offered, but many have been heard to complain for the very reason that there was no sketch, and yet one could not have been heard in the Auditorium, if presented. The bill must of necessity be confined to dumb acts, singing, and dancing acts.

For the other side, at the Kohl & Castle houses (and there are four of them), the crowds at the Majestic have taxed the capacity of that house at every performance, as well as at the Olympic, while business has not fallen off one whit at either the Chicago Opera House, or the Haymarket. The Majestic is the big gun of the K. & C. forces, and the bill offered in opposition to the Auditorium was one of the best which has ever been seen in Chicago, headed by May Irwin, and fortified by Hilda Spong, William Courtleigh and others equally good. For the week of Oct. 21 the bill at the Majestic is even stronger than that of its predecessor, and it seems that whichever side wins in the long run, the public is benefiting meanwhile; likewise the performers.

Long's Theatre, Camden, Leased.

Beginning Oct 21, Dr. Long's new theatre, at Camden, N. J., built and opened two weeks ago, passes into the hands of Mr. Nash and Mr. Hodgson, of the United Booking Offices, on a long term lease. Mr. Peebles has taken the reins of management for the above named gentlemen, and will be stationed there as resident manager.

This action caused quite a surprise, as the house was doing satisfactory business under Dr. Long, who was assisted by his son, Wm. Long Jr. The presumption is that the offer made by Mr. Nash and Mr. Hodgson was so satisfactory that Dr. Long, taking everything into consideration, including his time, which is largely taken up by his medicine shows, thought this the wiser plan.

Matinees are to be run daily, Mr. Peebles announces, and many other changes are to be made.

The Rose Hill Folly Co. Nearing New York.

Geo. W. Rice and his troupe of comedy experts are presenting a good show this week at the Gaiety, in Brooklyn. Mr. Rice appears himself, in "The Sausage Trust," a timely burlesque, on the fad of "merging," with a humorous plot. The various spectacular numbers and comedy interludes make up an enjoyable entertainment. Thomas F. Thomas and John E. Cain lend valuable aid in the funmaking. Henriette Wheeler, Florence Evans, Flossie Gaylor and Jessie McHenry are the "women in the case." Campbell and Beard, in a comedy act; "The New Boy," played by Cain, Evans, etc.; Mlle. Beatrice, a dancing and singing expert; Rogers and Evans, comedy; and the Bard Brothers, acrobats, present a fine array of specialties.

New American Films.

A new line of films of American manufacture is announced in this issue, with the international balloon races this week as the initial production. The O. T. Crawford Manufacturing Co., of St. Louis, has been formed, and a staff of experts has been at work for some time. Other subjects will follow the balloon film in a short time, and before long regular issues will be put upon the market. Mr. Crawford's amusement interests are very extensive in the West.

New Columbia Circuit Houses.

Work is progressing rapidly on the burlesque theatre being erected at Toronto, Ont., by the Columbia Amusement Co. It is located on Richmond Street, on a square known as "the island," and open on four sides. The auditorium, containing orchestra, balcony and gallery, is constructed on the cantilever plan, without posts, and will seat 1,580. The building is exclusively a theatre, absolutely fireproof, of steel and concrete. The building was commenced April 28, and will open Thanksgiving week, with Reeves and Campbell's Mardi Gras Girls.

The Princess, Montreal, Can., being the last on the list, and which will complete the circuit, is being built opposite Bennett's Vaudeville Theatre. It will seat 1,970, and will also be built of steel and concrete, on the cantilever principle. It will probably open in January, being building since May 1.

The Bon Ton Burlesquers in Brooklyn.

At the Star this week the Bon Tons are presenting an excellent programme, which includes "A Pousse Cafe," by Guy Rawson and Harry Armer "The Girl from Mars," with Guy Rawson in the leading comedy role, aided and abetted by Harry Woods, Benjamin Pierce and Harvey Greene. The ladies are led by Gladys Carlisle, Frances Clare and Florence Moore. The olio includes: The Girl with the Red Mask, and the Six Cocktails, in a spectacular dancing number, showing steps of all nations; Woods and Greene, comedians, as the Hall Room Boys; Rawson and Clare, in "Just Kids," and Ben Pierce, monologist. The moving pictures are a feature, and the Matzetti Troupe, of acrobatic fame, are an added attraction.

White City, Indianapolis, in Receiver's Hands.

On petition of the Central Trust Co., trustee of the bond holders, Pierson Mendenhall was appointed receiver of the White City Co., Indianapolis. It is not alleged that the White City Co. is insolvent, but that too much of the profits were spent on improvements, and not enough money remained to meet the interest on the bonded indebtedness. It was decided to take this action to protect all parties interested.

Mercidies Duo for Burlesque.

The Mercidies Duo, vocalists, one of Klaw & Erlanger's European attractions, have been engaged by Manager Geo. W. Rice, of the Rose Hill English Folly Co., for the rest of the season. Last week they joined the company and made a pronounced success.

Dillon's Theatre Opens.

The New Cortland (N. Y.) Theatre, owned and controlled by William A. Dillon and his brothers, opened its doors Wednesday, Oct. 16, with Mary Emerson, in "On Parole." The house is now a thoroughly up-to-date theatre, having been remodeled.

The Buffalo Bill Show Ends Season.

The Buffalo Bill Wild West came to a halt Oct. 18, at Richmond, Va., where it played to tremendous business at both performances, and the show went into Winter quarters at Bridgeport, Conn. The season has been exceptionally big.

Von Tilzer for Alhambra.

Harry Von Tilzer will appear at the Alhambra, New York City, next week, in the singing act which brought him into such prominence at Hammerstein's.

Don Sisters Return.

The Sisters Don (Emma and Lulu) have returned to America, and will open at Bennett's Theatre, London, Canada, in a new act.

Majestic, Indianapolis, Discontinues Vaudeville, Will be Devoted to Dramatic Stock.

The Majestic, Indianapolis, which opened Sept. 2, as a vaudeville house, on the Nash circuit, found this class of entertainment impracticable. After a two weeks' engagement of the Avenue Stock Co., which closed Oct. 19, Manager Fribley organized a company, and named it the Majestic Stock Co.

Members of the new stock company will give "The Cherry Pickers" week of Oct. 20, as their initial offering.

Joseph Byron Totten, of New York, will be the producer and director. The leading man is Clarence Hippie, late of the Blanche Bates company. Ernestine Mohrle, who acquired her schooling under Melbourne McDowell, will be the leading woman.

The other members include Robert Hyman, juveniles; Bernard McOwen, heavies; Billy Carroll, comedian; Clara Byer, ingeaue; Grace McArthy, second business woman; Marie DeTracy, soubrette; Rosiland Watson, characters; Henry W. Rowell, characters and general business; Wilson Gerard, L. V. Houson and S. I. Connor.

Elsie Janis Gets Loving Cup.

Members of last Summer's colony at Shelter Island made up a party on the opening night, Oct. 19, to see Elsie Janis in "The Hoyden," and later gave a supper for her in the Marie Antoinette room at the Plaza, when they presented her with a silver loving cup.

Henry Miller and Lee Shubert Secure "La Sacrifice."

Henry Miller, in connection with Lee Shubert, has obtained the English and American rights to "La Sacrifice," a three act drama, by Gaston Davore, now running at the Theatre Antoine, Paris, France.

Oscar Figman Opens Season.

Oscar Figman began his starring tour in "The Lightning Conductor," at Asbury Park, N. J., Saturday, Oct. 19, under the direction of E. A. Weil.

Besides Justina Wayne, who plays the role created by Effie Shannon, the players supporting Mr. Figman include E. Fernandes, Dudley Clinton, J. E. Toole, J. A. Curtis, Alfred Aldridge, Frank Lyman, Edith Berwyn, Amy Willard, Morgia Lytton, Madeline Lock and Evelyn Watson.

A tour of the South and West will be made before "The Lightning Conductor" will be seen in New York.

MASSACHUSETTS.

Boston.—There are no changes at the down town houses this week, the continuations being: Cecilia Loftus and Lawrence D'Orsay, in "The Lancers," at the Majestic; Eleanor Robson, in "Salomy Jane," at the Hollis; Anna Held, in "The Parisian Model," at the Colonial, and Marie Doro, in "The Morals of Marcus," at the Park. "Sky Farm" is continued

COLE BROS.' CIRCUS NOTES.—We gave two excellent performances, to packed tents, at Muskogee, I. T., Oct. 7.

NOTES FROM Advertising Car No. 2, of Buffalo Bill's Wild West, closed the season Oct. 12, at Richmond, Va. The roster is: Chas. Hayes, car manager; Al. Hall, boss billposter; F. Smith, boss lithographer; H. Johnson, boss bannerman; J. Reardon, H. Mason, H. Nulton, A. Meyers, J. Hart, F. C. Turner, J. Reppert, R. Palmer, J. Cavanaugh, billposters; W. Brett, E. David, bannermen; H. Miller, porter. After the "Home Sweet Home" stand was posted on one of the principal bill boards of Richmond, which was designed by Al. Hall and H. M. Mason, the boys were given a banquet at the Jefferson Hotel, where a very pleasant evening was spent. Speeches were made by Car Manager Chas. Hayes and H. Nulton, steward of the car, while H. Johnson, who operated on the piano, was assisted by the Brush Quartette, consisting of F. Smith, H. Nulton, W. Brett and A. Meyers. J. Reardon told some of his experience while on routes in the woods. H. Mason related his trials and tribulations with the Mexicans in old Mexico. Kid Palmer passed "a line of salve" about a few of the "big" ones he had been with, which made the boys stop eating. Al. Hall said he would dance, but his foot hurt him so. John Reppert brought out the long neck fiddle and introduced the barn dance. J. Cavanaugh, H. Nulton and A. M. Meyers entertained the boys with some acrobatic stunts, with the assistance of J. Reardon, doing the comedy part. The banquet broke up in the early hours of the morning, when the boys went to Norfolk to take in the warpath at the Jamestown Exposition, before leaving for New York.

ANTONIO PUBILLONES has completed arrangements for his companies for Cuba, and with one of them will sail Oct. 26 for Havana. Early in November a second company starts from New York for Mexico, and later another one sails for Panama.

ARTHUR YUCE, assisted by Allie Simpson, is presenting a new act, entitled "Willie's Visit." For the first four weeks they have been delegated to close the show at every theatre they played.

O. HAROLD LA HICKEY, the violinist, has joined Frank & Thompson's Entertainers in Wisconsin. He reports fine business.

F. E. KEENE writes that a recent notice concerning his marriage stated that "Stella B. Carl and F. E. Keene, of 'Stronghearf' Co., were married." Mr. Keene says this is an error, and that he and Stella B. Saville, of Saville's "Humpty Dumpty" Co., were married.

A BENEFIT PERFORMANCE was given last week at the Opera House, Bloomsburg, Pa., for the performers with the De Vonde & Stewart Co., as the managers left the company without giving notice.

DURING HER NUMBER, "Will You Make It For Me, a Happy Life?" Gladys Sears, of the Parisian Belles Co., uses the real Yiddish dialect. She is said to be the only woman on the vaudeville stage doing that kind of an act. Western newspaper writers commend her highly.

ADELE PURVIS ONRI writes from London, of herself and Flora Allthorpe, enjoying themselves during their vacation. They spent a week in Paris, and there purchased a diamond spade, for use in her dance; also a diamond dress, made according to Miss Onri's designs. They will return to America in time to open at the Doric Theatre, Yonkers, Nov. 11. They have signed for the Moss & Stoll tour, commencing October, 1908.

J. BERNARD DYLLYN will start on another tour, of eleven weeks, on the Sullivan & Considine circuit, Oct. 28, making a total of forty-five weeks, in one year, played for the same firm.

FRANK MOORE AND GERTIE SCOFIELD, of the Behman Show, were married on the stage at Hurtig & Seamon's Music Hall, New York City, evening of Thursday, Oct. 17.

NEW YORK CITY.

Keith & Proctor's Union Square Theatre (E. F. Albee, general manager).—The cold weather and the usual excellent bill caused a large attendance at the opening performance of the current week, Monday afternoon, Oct. 21. The Murray Sisters, with their songs, were fascinating. The songs are up-to-date, and the dainty, clever way in which they are rendered, made the act a "hit." Valerie Bergere, in a playlet, showed the emotions of an uneducated woman, who gives up her lover because she believes it would be for his good. She was skillful, and mingled slang with emotion to the delight of the audience. Stella Mayhew, assisted by Billee Taylor, rendered some bright songs in a clever manner, and received many encores. Norton and Patterson, colored comedians, did some graceful singing and dancing, which pleased those present. B. Rieuhold, with a good song and bright talk, held the attention of all. Gertrella did a graceful dance and some balancing on a trapeze. Her work on the trapeze is startling, and is done in a "finished" way. Dale and O'Malley scored with their song and bright, rapid talk. Apdale's animals were interesting in their clever tricks. The above five acts will be more fully reviewed in our next issue. The Five Madcaps, as usual, made a "hit" with their singing and acrobatic dancing. Others were: Juggling Mathieu, Brooks and Jennett, German comedy sketch; Eva Taylor and company, in a clever playlet, and Mathews and Ashley, comedy singing and talking.

Majestic Theatre (W. L. Rowland, manager).—A musical extravaganza, entitled The Top o' Th' World, was given its first presentation in New York at this theatre, which reopened Oct. 19, after five nights of darkness, to a very large audience. The work was first produced Aug. 26, at the New Royal Alexandria Theatre, Toronto, Can., and the Messrs. Shubert are its sponsors. It is in two acts, the book being by Mark E. Swan, lyrics by James O'Dea, the music by Manuel Klein and Anna Caldwell, while Frank Smithson is responsible for its staging. There are three scenes in act one, the first one being Kris Kringle's workshop in Christmas Land, supposed to be at the top of the world, with Kringle about to start on his once-a-year tour with toys and presents for his young friends, when a little girl, who regrets that she is "only a little girl," and is desirous of "growing up fast," and is searching for the Wish Pole, finds her way to his shop. We are also introduced at this point to a balloonist, who is pledged not to discover the North Pole; an inventor of hot air, who is one of the important characters of the production; an Eskimo chief and his daughter, the two comedians, who dominate affairs generally, and an excellent impersonation of a friendly polar bear. It is here that Jack Frost appears on the scene, arrests all of the principals, and sends them all to the realms of Aurora Borealis, queen of the Northern lights, which forms the final scene of act one. Act two is in one scene, a plaza in the City of Illusia, and in which occurs most of the action of the piece. This concerns principally the anxiety of Aurora Borealis to capture an "affinity" among the men who have been transported to her realm, and the efforts of all the others concerned to circumvent the machinations of their arch enemy, Jack Frost, who finally accepts his defeat gracefully. Kathleen Clifford, as Maida, the little girl who wants to grow up fast, and charming little Anna Laughlin, the Eskimo maiden, carried off the honors of the evening, both having several very catchy vocal numbers, and dancing nimbly as well. George Monroe, as Aurora Borealis, did well in his well known boisterous way; Fred Bailey and Ralph Austin were excellent as Jack in the Box and the Candy Kid, respectively, as much of the comedy of the production is allotted to them; Arthur Hill assumed the character of the Polar Bear quite naturally; George Majeroni was successful as Jack Frost; Kankakee, the Eskimo chief, was well portrayed by Roger Dolan; John McVeigh was breezy as an inventor, and Harry Fairleigh did well as Shellman, the balloonist. There is no attempt at scenic display in the "Top o' Th' World," but it is very prettily costumed, there are a number of catchy vocal numbers, and the acting company does excellently well with the material at hand. But if success attends this engagement at the Majestic, much of it will be due to the artistic dancing numbers, as arranged by William Rock and Luigi Albertieri. Particularly is this the case in the "Kiddie" song in act one, entitled "How'd You Like to Be My Bow-wow-wow?" In this number, after six small girls had executed several dancing steps, six beautiful collie dogs trotted on the stage and found their proper places, lying down, and allowing just enough space between each to permit the girls to dance around and jump over the dogs' bodies, and at the finish of the number each dog "sat up" on his haunches and received a kiss for his good behavior. During the dance each dog held his position rigidly and it was a fine example of animal training. This number received ringing applause and is the dancing novelty of this season. There is a deal of brightness in The Top o' Th' World and much that appeals to the lovers of musical comedy. The cast: Kris Kringle, Russell Bassett; Kankakee, Roger Dolan; Maida, Kathleen Clifford; Billy, Bessie Franklin; Shellman, Harry Fairleigh; Westinghouse Morse, John McVeigh; Jack in the Box, Fred Bailey; The Candy Kid, Ralph Austin; The Friendly Bear, Arthur Hill; Stalacta, Blanche Wayne; Prince Tinymite, Helene Montrose; Jack Frost, George Majeroni; Ice Guards, Mary Mooney, Carolyn Barber; Aurora Borealis, George W. Monroe; Chief of Police, Bobbie Nolan; Kokomo, Anna Laughlin.

Colonial Theatre (Percy G. Williams, manager).—The usual big Monday audiences assembled Oct. 21, when the new bill for this week was presented. The headline position on the bill is given to the English coster comedian, Alec Hurley, who, with his coster comedians, made his American debut at the matinee, 21. The act will be reviewed in our next issue. The remainder of the bill for this week is made up of acts which the patrons of the Colonial always extend a generous welcome to, and applause greeted each act on Monday. The bill lists: Katie Barry, in character songs, and the diminutive comedienne scored a strong hit, as usual; Foy and Clark, in "The Spring of Youth," were applauded liberally, and took several bows at the finish of their very funny sketch; the Willy Pantzer Troupe, in an acrobatic act, was one of the solid successes of the show; Raymond and Caverly, in a hard position of the programme, easily won their usual favor; Howard's ponies delighted the young and astonished the older contingent in equine feats of training; the Milani Trio discoursed sweet music; Eddie Clarke and his Six Winning Widows renewed former successes here; De Witt C. Young juggled entertainingly, and the vitagraph showed new pictures.

Empire Theatre (Chas. Frohman, manager).—John Drew, in "My Wife," began his eighth week Oct. 21.

Astor Theatre (Wagenhals & Kemper, managers).—Raymond Hitchcock, in "A Yankee Tourist," began his eleventh week Oct. 21.

Lyceum Theatre (Daniel Frohman, manager).—Kyrle Bellew and Margaret Illington, in "The Thief," began their seventh week Oct. 21.

Daly's (Sam S. & Lee Shubert, inc., managers).—Margaret Anglin and Henry Miller began Oct. 21, their eighth week.

Yorkville Theatre (Frank Gersten, manager).—"A Millionaire's Revenge" is the bill here this week, opening Monday night, Oct. 21.

New Circle Theatre (Dave Kraus, general manager).—"Two Islands" began its second week Oct. 21.

Keith & Proctor's Fifth Avenue Theatre (E. F. Albee, general manager).—The revised production of "The Marriage of William Ashe," as given at this house on Oct. 21, proved much superior to the version of that play recently given in this city. Margaret Mayo has improved the work noticeably, and the opening day audiences here found much to commend in it. Edna May Spooner, as Lady Kitty, won a marked success. She caught the spirit of the part, and was magnetic and altogether satisfying in it. Augustus Phillips, as the dignified William Ashe, did splendidly. He is an actor who always knows his lines, and his interpretations are invariably intelligent ones. Harold Kennedy and Ben F. Wilson won honors for their work, and Edwin H. Curtis gave another of his character creations with great attention to detail, scoring big. Eleanor Wisdom, in the play and in her songs between acts, won much well merited applause. Others deserving mention were: Arthur Evers, William L. West, Walter D. Nealand, Lawrence Wakefield, Harold Clairement, Olive Grove, Jessie McAllister, Josephine Fox, Harriet Swearingin and Eleanor Haber.

Fourteenth Street Theatre (J. Wesley Rosenquest, manager).—For the week beginning Monday matinee, Oct. 21, "Girl of Eagle Ranch," a new melodrama, by Walter Woods, in four acts, holds forth. The story tells how James Brandon loved June Carver and was engaged to marry her, and his brother, Richard, through treachery, supplants him. Jim goes West to forget her, and his brother, taking advantage of his sudden disappearance, steals money from Col. Carver, the girl's father, and brands Jim as a thief. On his arrival in the West Jim buys from a scheming Mexican what is believed to be a useless mine. He also loves and is loved by "The Girl" of the ranch, and everything is all right until some Easterners arrive and issue a warrant for the arrest of Jim, which is never served. The Mexican gets Richard in his power and forces him to do as he bids. The Mexican learns of the sale of the mine by Jim for a large sum of money, and, assisted by Richard, robs Jim and makes an attack on Col. Carver, who overhears their plot, and leaves him for dead. He recovers, however, but is speechless and can not tell who made the attack. Another fortune left to Col. Carver hastens Richard's scheme to Marry June, who still believes in him. "The Girl" in the meantime still loves Jim, and believes in his innocence. She goes to Denver to attend the marriage of June to Richard, and meets Jim, who was reported dead. Everything is ready for the wedding when the Colonel suddenly regains his speech and bids his daughter leave the side of the man she is about to marry. He tells of Jim's innocence, and brings happiness to Jim and "The Girl." The Mexican is arrested, but Richard makes his escape. Mamie Fleming made her first local appearance as "The Girl." She was capital in her part, and soon won the admiration of the audience. Specialties by Miss Fleming were generously applauded and she was forced to respond to several encores. Joseph E. Bernard, as Jim Brandon, was worthy of the applause bestowed upon him, and Henry Alexander, as the Mexican, cleverly played his part. The work of W. H. Barwald was worthy of special mention, and Tommy West as "Sandy" O'Brien, and Herbert Colby as "Curly" Harris, the sheriff, were a very amusing pair. Tommy West and the "Valley Forge Quartette offered specialties which were well received. W. H. Gracey, in a musical offering, introduced a very novel device, known as Musical Rattles, closing his act with patriotic airs which drew forth deafening applause. The cast: James Brandon, Joseph E. Bernard; Richard Brandon, W. H. Barwald; Santo Riverra, Henry Alexander; "Sandy" O'Brien, Tommy West; "Curly" Harris, Herbert Colby; Col. Henry Carver, Oliver Bundy; "Just Bill," Frank Du Fryne; Wild Harry, William Quinn; Pecus Bill, William Healy; Slim Jake, Charles Quinn; Handsome Charley, Billy Bauer; Bess Starlight Dorothy Primrose; June Carver, Katherine Thayer; "The Girl," Mamie Fleming. Next week, "Edna, the Pretty Typewriter."

Knickerbocker Theatre (Al. Hayman & Co., managers).—A series of effective stage pictures, some well executed dances, a tuneful song or two, and Elsie Janis—but principally Elsie Janis—best describes The Hoyden, the musical comedy which received its initial New York performance Saturday evening, Oct. 19. The story is on the usual gossamer-like order of the modern musical comedy, and its treatment is sadly lacking in interest, nor are its musical interpolations of much merit, in the main. The piece is from the French, adapted by Cosmo Hamilton, with music by John L. Golden and Robert Hood Bowers. It was staged by Ben Teal. Lucy Talbot, engaged by her father's wish to a distant cousin, Harry Talbot, discovers that she does not love her prospective fiance, and implores him to jilt her. He, being no more in love with the lady than she with him readily agrees, and leaves to rejoin his Bohemian friends. Before he leaves, Joan Talbot, the Hoyden, arrives from school; they meet, and are mutually attracted. After a brief flirtation Harry leaves. Lucy pretends grief at the desertion of Harry, and Joan, in a burst of sisterly devotion, starts to bring Harry back to Lucy. She arrives at Dieppe and meets Harry with his theatrical friends. Meanwhile Lucy and her lover, Doctor Gousse, have become guests of Aunt Herminia, and at a reception all meet, explanations are exchanged, and everybody is made happy. Elsie Janis is as fresh, vivacious and ingenuous as of old, and enters heartily into her work. She is particularly effective in her imitations of Sam Bernard, Eddie Foy and Richard Carle, and also mimics in her songs Anna Held, George Cohan and others. Nellie Beaumont, as Rita Santaclerel, an actress friend of Harry's, scored with her "Advertising" song. Lionel Walsh, as the Hon. Bertie, had the best of the male roles, and made the most of it. Ammand Kallsz, as Lucy's lover, the doctor, was particularly pleasing in his singing. Robert Lett and Arthur Stanford, as The Major and Harry Talbot made the best of limited opportunities. The Ward Brothers introduced a dancing specialty which seemed to please. Apart from the work of Miss Janis, which dominated the performance, the most effective numbers introduced were the various dances—one in the first act by practically the entire feminine portion of the company; one in the second act by a graceful and sprightly quartette, and the trio song and dance by Messrs. Lett, Kalisz and Walsh, in the final act. The cast: Thomas Talbot, Samuel Reed; Harry Talbot, Arthur Stanford; Major Algernon Fitzhugh Finch Robert Lett; Dr. Julian Gousse, Armand Kallsz; Hon. Bertie Cecil Grahame, Lionel Walsh; Louis, Robert Walsh; Theobold, Larry Ward; Lucy Talbot, Kathryn Hutchinson; Joan Talbot, Elsie Janis; Miss Herminia Smith, Annie Esmond; Henriette, Isabel D'Armond; Rita Santaclerel, Nellie Beaumont; Mlle. La Clarette, La Novella; Maud de Maulan, Ella Rock; Claris Angler, Elsie Steele; Thais Coutier, Eleanor Pendleton.

Academy of Music (Gilmore & Tompkins, manager).—Denman Thompson, in "The Old Homestead," began, Oct. 21, his fourth and last week.

Savoy Theatre (Frank McKee, manager).—"The Man of the Hour" began its forty-seventh week Oct. 21.

Wallack's (Charles Burnham, manager).—"The Silver Girl" began its second week Oct. 21. This is its last fortnight.

Hudson Theatre (Henry B. Harris, manager).—Robert Edeson began, Oct. 21, his ninth week in "Classmates."

Liberty Theatre (Klaw & Erlanger, managers).—"The Rogers Brothers in Panama" moved in here Oct. 21.

Keith & Proctor's Fifty-eighth Street Theatre (E. F. Albee, general manager).—Another good bill is offered here this week, beginning Monday, Oct. 21, and was opened by the Keeley Bros., whose expert bag punching secured rounds of applause. Melville and Higgins entertained with their singing and dancing and comedy work. The Musical Spillers, five in number, were warmly welcomed in their musical offering; Charlotte Parry and Reginald Parry and Edward Huot presented a protean playlet, entitled "The Comstock Mystery," in which Miss Parry very effectively assumed seven distinct characters; Julius Tannen, monologist and mimic, came in for many manifestations of approval; McMahon's Minstrel Maids and Watermelon Girls was the favorite number, their solo and ensemble singing scoring a pronounced hit; Warren and Blanchard, comedians of merit, made good; Marcel's living pictures representing works of world-known painters and sculptors, were highly effective and pleasing. Motion pictures closed the show.

Stuyvesant Theatre (David Belasco, manager).—This house was dedicated Wednesday night, Oct. 16, by David Warfield, in his new four act play, entitled A Grand Army Man, which then was given its first metropolitan production. The play, which is the joint work of David Belasco, Pauline Phelps and Marion Short, received its first American production Sept. 23, at the Hyperion Theatre, New Haven, Conn., while on Sept. 19 it was presented, for copyright purposes, in London, Eng. The play tells a simple story of a veteran of the Civil War, and the action takes place in a small town in Indiana in the early '80s. Wes' Bigelow, commander of the Grand Army Post in his town, is also a stage driver. In his young manhood he had loved a young girl who did not return his affection, and married his friend. At the first call for volunteers Wes' and this friend, with a number of others of the town, joined the same regiment. The friend was killed in battle, and on his return home, at the close of the war, Wes' finds the young widow dying. Before her demise she imposes upon him the bringing up of her infant son, Robert, a trust which Wes' gladly accepts. At the beginning of the play Robert is a young man, eighteen years of age, spoiled through the indulgence of his foster father and Letitia, housekeeper for Wes'. Robert loves and is loved by Hallie, the daughter of Judge Andrews, who dislikes Wes' because of his activity in preventing his (the judge) re-election. The judge therefore frowns upon Robert's suit. The Grand Army Post has just completed its new hall, having succeeded, through fairs and sociables, in collecting $1,000, with which Robert is entrusted to deposit in the bank located in a nearby town. On the steps of the bank Robert is accosted by the owner of a bucket shop, who induces the lad to invest, with the result that he loses all. When the crime is discovered it is supposed that with the restitution of the money by Wes', the case will be dropped, but Let' Pettingill, treasurer of the Post, determines to prosecute the boy, being egged on to this action by Rogers Wellman, a young lawyer, who wants to marry Hallie. Wes', by dint of selling or mortgaging most of his possessions, succeeds in getting together the $1,000, but finds his efforts have been useless. Robert is found guilty and sentenced to the State penitentiary for one year. After serving six months of the sentence, Robert is pardoned and returns home New Year's night. The play is too long, and could be shortened, by at least three quarters of an hour, to advantage. It is doubtful, too, if the sentencing of Robert is not a mistake. The history of all plays has been that the placing of a stigma upon the hero or heroine on the stage detracts from its merit, and has prevented many a play from being great. The using of money which did not belong to him was undoubtedly a crime, but with the restitution of the funds by Wes', justice could probably have been better subserved by the suspension of sentence. In real life it is frequently done under similar circumstances, and to do it in this instance would be a victory for the hero, whose words to the judge, following the sentence of Robert, have an undisputed ring of truth in them—"You think you are punishing a criminal! You're not! You're making one!" With the stigma of Robert being stamped a criminal, placed upon Wes' Bigelow the sympathy of the audience, which has heretofore been his, turns to pity—a dangerous feeling for any stage hero or heroine to excite. The story is told in simple style, filled with heart interest and sentiment, and forms a fitting setting for an actor of Mr. Warfield's tenderness and feeling. The character of Wes' Bigelow is drawn on the lines of Herr Von Barwig, in "The Music Master," and Mr. Warfield plays it in the same masterful manner that signalized his performance of that role, and placed him among our greatest character actors. And great he really is in this role. Marie Bates, Reuben Fax, George Woodward, Antoinette Perry, Stephen Maley, and, in fact, the entire cast, lent capital aid. The work was staged with all the care to detail for which Mr. Belasco is famous. The cast in full: Wes' Bigelow, David Warfield; Judge Andrews, Howard Hall; Captain Bestor, Reuben Fax; Jim Bishop, George Woodward; Cory Kilbert, James Lackaye; Let' Pettingill, Stephen Maley; Comrade Potter, Tony Bevan; Comrade Tucker, Thomas Gilbert; Comrade Tate, Henry F. Stone; Robert, William Elliott; Rogers Wellman, Taylor Holmes; Hickman, John V. Daly; Hallie, Antoinette Perry; Letitia, Marie Bates; Mrs. Bestor, Amy Stone; Alida Bester, Veda McEvers; Mrs. Pettingill, Jane Cowl; Mrs. Klibert, Louise Coleman. With Mr. Belasco's well known practice, he introduced an innovation which will probably become popular in our most fashionable theatres giving dramatic performances. There was no orchestra, and the rising of the curtain was announced by the ringing of a bell, which was followed by subdued chimes. Of the house itself it need only be said that it is the acme of beauty. A full description of it is deferred for another time. The second wek of "A Grand Army Man" began 21, with capacity business still the rule.

American Theatre (J. M. Ward, manager).—Cole and Johnson, in The Shoofly Regiment, gave the opening performance of the current week, at this house, on Monday afternoon, Oct. 21. The audience was enthusiastic in its reception of the musical comedy. Bob Cole, as the janitor, proved to be as funny as usual, and made all present wish he had more to do. He was easy in his work, his comedy was good, and his dancing clever. J. Rosamond Johnson, as a graduate of Taskegee, was in good voice, and played his part well. Andrew Tribble was good in a grotesque part. Fannie Wise "caught on" with her "Brown Bear" song. The chorus was well trained, and had many good voices. The cast: Professor Maxwell, Arthur Talbot; Williamson, Frank De Lyons; Virginia, Nettie Glenn; Uncle July Jackson, Henry Gant; Aunt Phoebe Jackson, Elizabeth Williams; Rose Maxwell, Fannie Wise; Ophelia, Andrew Tribble; Mailman, J. T. Porter; Bro. Doolittle, Sam Lucas; Bro. Dolcss, Wesley Jenkins; Hunter Wilson, Bob Cole; Edward Jackson, J. Rosamond Johnson; Delsey Lumpkins, Mollie Dill; Napoleon Bonaparte Lumpkins, Arthur Ray; Martha Jones, Anna Cook; Truscalina, Mamie Butler; Lieut. Dixon, Theo. Pankey; Orderly Co. H., Wm. Phelps; Grizzelle, Nettie Glenn, and a Filipino Spy, Arthur Ray.

Manhattan Theatre.—Shepard's moving pictures continue to please good attendance.

Herald Square Theatre (Geo. W. Sammis, manager).—Lew Fields, in "The Girl Behind the Counter," began his fourth week Oct. 21.

Casino (Sam S. & Lee Shubert, inc., managers).—"The Gay White Way," starring Jefferson De Angelis, Blanche Ring and Alexander Carr, began its third week Oct. 21.

Keith & Proctor's Twenty-third Street Theatre (E. F. Albee, general manager).—Another good bill this week. Harry Leonhardt's wisdom in increasing the size of the orchestra here was shown on Oct. 21, when the selections rendered under the excellent leadership of Frederick Weper, got big applause. In the bill were: Rogers and Deely, in "Robinson Crusoe's Isle;" Smith and Campbell, who are the real laugh makers; Middleton, Spellmeyer and company, in a poetic little act, with some strong features, called "A Texas Wooing;" Johnnie Stanley, with Gus Edwards' Blonde Typewriters, in an entertaining offering, which is greatly strengthened by Mr. Stanley's clever imitations; Ila Grannon, a singing comedienne who has some good songs, and who knows how to sing them; Al. H. Weston and Irene Young, in "The Gadding Gossipers," which proved a success; the Five Periscodis, in a neatly dressed and meritorious juggling novelty, and Max Duffek, a contortionist, whose act is remarkable. The motion pictures continue.

Murray Hill Theatre (J. Herbert Mack, manager).—The Bowery Burlesquers, under the direction of Jules Hurtig, opened here 21 with a bill full of good things, which earned hearty approval. The opening act, "On the Bowery," with its concert saloon, its slumming party, is well known, but was kept up to the minute by new interpretations. Ben Janson, as Isaac, kept the house in roars; Mike Kelly was amusing as Casey; Harry Koler was a comical "brudder" to Ike. Clara Douglas looked, acted and sang well as one of the 400. Ida Bayton was the lively red soubrette. The musical numbers included: 1. "I'd Rather Two-Step Than Waltz, Bill;" 2. "On the Bowery;" 3. "Waltresses;" 4. "Sacramento;" 5. "College;" 6. "My Dixieland Daisy;" 7. "The Moon Plays Peek-a-Boo," and a lively finale. The costumes of the girls were particularly striking and appropriate for each number. Arthur and Ethel Miller presented a whirlwind two step dance which brought down the house. The second scene in the artist studio, wherein Miss Douglas played the artist, was enlivened by some pretty numbers, notably "School Days," in which she was assisted by the chorus of school girls and boys. Ben Jansen's piano solos, parodies and comedy work, assisted by Harry Koler, earned him innumerable encores for his clever work. The third scene was laid in the courtroom, and allowed full scope for funny work. Other specialties were: The Two Racketts, music and comedy, and Carmelita Delcedero, in artistic poses with color effects. "Mariutch," sung by Harry Hillis, with the chorus appropriately made up, was one of the big number hits. E. M. Rosenthal is manager; L. Burrows, business manager; Hugh W. Schubert, musical director; Edward M. Bice, electrician; A. Spector, stage carpenter. Next week, the Parisian Belles.

Pastor's Theatre (Tony Pastor, manager).—The current week opened with a matinee, Monday, Oct. 21. A crowded house received the excellent bill with many expressions of approval. Vinnie Henshaw and company, in "Lazy Lou's Vacation," gave pleasure. Vinnie Henshaw played the part of an ignorant scrubwoman, who is called on to take part in a singing trio. The funny slang and odd make-up caused roars of laughter. Teed and Lazelle, in "Delmonico's Upside Down," caught the fancy of the audience. Lavender Richardson and company, in a comedy, entitled "Brady's Boy," drew much applause by their skillful acting of the funny situations. The Clover Trio, in "Two Sharps and a Flat," proved to be very entertaining. The audience appreciated the clever work and odd sayings. The above acts will be more fully reviewed in our next issue. Deltorelli and Glissando played musical instruments concealed in odd ways, for one of which both sat down at a table, spread for a meal, and played on instruments concealed in dishes, cups, bread, etc. Many encores rewarded their efforts. Hathaway and Siegel, in a comedy skit, "Hotel Bluff". Miss Siegel was bright and pretty, and Hathaway aroused the audience with his dancing. J. K. Hutchinson and company, in "Out All Night," carried through the complicated situations with skill, and to the pleasure of all. Wm. H. Maxwell and Daisy Dudley, in a singing playlet, "For Sweet Charity," sang some bright, interesting songs. Their work scored as usual. Others were: Jeff and Lavern Healy, society vaudeville artists; the Razarfs, magicians and illusionists Granville and Mack, in "Just Nonsense," and Belmont, juggling. Motion pictures closed the show.

Victoria Theatre (Oscar Hammerstein, manager).—The bill for the present week here will, in point of entertaining merit, and the capabilities of the performers engaged, compare very favorably with any provided by the Victoria management. Opening Monday, 21, were: Peter F. Dailey and company, in his comedy skit, "Nearly a War Correspondent," which scored a solid hit; Wm. H. Thompson and company, presenting the delightfully acted playlet, "For Love's Sweet Sake;" the Elinore Sisters caused roars of laughter in "The Actress and the Maid;" John T. Kelly and company, in "A Game of Con," repeated former successes here; Irene Franklin and Burt Green scored strongly in their singing and piano specialty; Pat Rooney and Marion Bent, in "The Busy Bellboy," easily won favor; Foster and Foster were excellent in a musical bit; Selbini and Grovini did startling cycling and equilibristic stunts; the Kitamura Japs appeared in their marvelous acrobatic work, and the vitagraph, with new pictures, brought the fine bill to a close.

Thalia Theatre (Sullivan & Woods, managers).—A Child Shall Lead Them is the attraction, having moved down from an uptown house for the week. Louis L. Barenkopf is business manager for S. Fleisig; Adolph J. Adler, treasurer; Harry M. Bailey, stage carpenter; George Prince, props.; Irving Medoff, advertising agent. Next week, Woods' "Fallen by the Wayside."

Third Avenue Theatre (Spencer & Baker, managers).—The Still Alarm is this week's offering. The cast: Jack Manley, Geo. Soule Spencer; John Bird, Eugene Frazier; Franklyn Fordham, J. W. McConnell; Doc Wilbur, Burke Clark; Willie Manley, Robert C. Turner; Joe Jones, Howard Missemer; Jenkins, Otis Miller; Messenger Boy, Master Leslie Miller; Nozzle, William Delmore; Tony, B. S. Walter; Elinore Fordham, Elinor Montell; Mrs. Manley, Mollie Ravel; Cad Wilbur, Bessie Bacon. Next week, "The Sign of the Four."

London Theatre.—The Dreamland Burlesquers drew a packed house Monday evening, with Dave Marion, Harry Fox and Agnes Behler in the principal roles, assisted by Will Lawrence, Fred Barnes, Fred B. Burke, Geo. H. Pearce, Charles Mannes, Will Hanlon, Frank Hanlon, Harry Hanlon, Adelaide L. Fell, Della Earl, Verna Earl, Agnes Daniels, Arline Bless, and a lively chorus, in the two act comedy, "Newport." The list of specialties included the Sisters Earl, the Liberty Four (Barnes, Lawrence, Pearce and Benor), Dave Marion, Harry Fox and company, and the Three Hanlons. The Londonscope presented "The Mill Girl." Next week, Pat White's Gaiety Girls.

Miner's Bowery Theatre (Edwin D. Miner, manager).—The programme of the Sam Devere Show, here this week, includes: "Mr. Planet from Mars," the La Velle Sisters, Ali. Hunter and Ali. Jacobs and West, Ott, Nelson and company, Simonds and Warde, and "The Belle of Boston." Next week, the High School Girls.

New York Hippodrome (Shubert & Anderson, managers).—"Pioneer Days" and "Neptune's Daughter," and the numerous arena features began, Oct. 21, their eighth week.

Grand Opera House (John H. Springer, manager).—Frank Daniels, in "The Tattooed Man," is the current attraction, opening Monday, Oct. 21, to the usual large audience.

New York Theatre (Klaw & Erlanger, managers).—A crowded house greeted the excellent bill at the opening performance of the current week on Monday afternoon, Oct. 21. Alice Taylor, assisted by Henry Taylor, did a sharpshooting and balancing act which was well received. The shooting done by Alice Taylor at different objects and from different positions was wonderful, and the equilibristic work of Henry Taylor showed nerve. The Zaretsky Troupe showed the Russian style of acrobatic dancing. Their work was much above that class usually seen and was heartily applauded. The above acts will be more fully reviewed in our next issue. Hetty King, the impersonator of young men, proved to be as popular as ever. She introduced two new songs, with appropriate costumes, and received a royal welcome. Eph Thompson's elephants have a wide range of tricks and are remarkably clever. Hickey and Nelson, in "Twisted and Tangled," did an odd novelty, which pleased as usual, and showed their abilities as fun makers. Edith Helena possesses a voice with a remarkable range, and uses it well in some good songs. Ralph Johnstone does a large number of tricks on a bicycle, and some of them are startling. His work is skillful, and called for much applause. Howard Brothers juggled and played on six banjos simultaneously, to the delight of the audience. Wilfred Clarke and company, in "What Will Happen Next?" The farce is full of original and humorous situations, which are well carried out by Wilfred Clarke and his companions. Cartmell and Harris gave an odd dancing act, and showed grace and activity. and Stuart Barnes was entertaining in a monologue.

Berkeley Lyceum.—Arnold Daly inaugurated his new policy at this house Tuesday evening, Oct. 15, when three little plays were presented. There was no orchestra, and the first curtain did not rise until nine o'clock. Two of the plays are of American origin, in which Mr. Daly himself took part—The Shirkers, by C. M. S. McLellan, and Washington's First Defeat, by Charles Frederick Nirdlinger. Between them was sandwiched a Japanese tragedy, entitled The Martyr, performed by Mme. Hanako and her Japanese company. The Martyr tells of a playful little Japanese who fools her lover and exchanges dresses with her maid servant. When the maid refuses to reply to the lover's speeches he denounces her, and is overheard by the lady's brother. Then the brother drives his knife into the lover's heart, the girl being meanwhile engaged in a frantic effort to explain. Her death by her own hands follows. Mme. Hanako is clever as an actress, and her pantomime is most expressive. The Martyr, a tragedy in one act, is by Y. Robano. The cast: Princess Ossode, Mme. Hanako; Washizuka, her brother, Mr. Yamaoka; Baron Saito, Mr. Yoshikawa; Tsune, servant, Miss Oharu. Mr. McLellan's The Shirkers is a gruesome thing, but it held close attention and was splendidly acted by Holbrook Blinn, Helen Ware and Arnold Daly. It is in two acts, and tells of how a young man from the city arrives at a lonely farmhouse just after the owner of the place has stabbed his wife in a fit of madness, brought on by loneliness and grief for a dead child. The two men agree to exchange places in life. The youth has nursed the woman back to health, and they have lived together for a year. When she learns of his determination to quit her, she stabs herself. The end of the play sees the wanderer returned, the woman dead, and the youth starting on his way back to town. The wanderer, who thinks that he has left the woman dead a year before, goes mad when he comes upon her body, not yet cold. Washington's First Defeat tells of Washington's courtship, at the age of eighteen, of Lucy Grymes, his defeat lying in the failure to capture the girl, even after he had given her a colored version of the episode of the cherry tree and the hatchet. This was well played by Mr. Daly, Marian Chapman and Mattie Ferguson.

Dewey Theatre (Sullivan & Kraus, managers).—Campbell & Drew's Tiger Lilies Burlesquers, under the management of Wash. Martin, began the week here Monday matinee, Oct. 21. It was the first city appearance this season of this company, and they were greeted by a packed house. "The Twin Sister," a clever one act farce, opens the show. Geo. P. Murphy, as Ludwig Shultz, was a very good German; John C. Hart, as a Thespian, was as comical as he looked; Josie Webb, as Mrs. Townes; Una Lillian Ellsworth, as Mrs. Tom; Happy Carrie Ezier, as Lizzie Help Us, were all happily cast. The chorus was well drilled in march, dancing and singing, and were handsomely costumed. "I'll Be Happy Till I Die," rendered by Carrie Ezier and chorus, was one of the hits in the song line. "He Goes to Church on Sunday," by Geo. Murphy and chorus, were also well liked. The full cast: Ludwig Shultz, Geo. P. Murphy; A Thespian, John C. Hart; Mr. Towns, Harry J. Ellsworth; A Party, Jack Irwin; Willie Slim, John Marion; Miss Towns, Una Lillian Ellsworth; Mrs. Towns, Josie Webb; Lizzie Help Us, Carrie Ezier; Mrs. Ludwig Shultz, Julia Natus; Carrie Sweets, Grace Lillian. The chorus ladies: May Harrison, Anna Murphy, Dorothy Marks, Rose Allen, Emlee Podl, Mollie Murdock, June Marlind, Leah Kuba, Grace Keller, Anna Allen, Edyth Bennett, Kaleene Carter, Miss Smith, Dolly Davis, Ray Delmore, Del Netra. Excellent vaudeville followed: John Marion and Grace Lillian, in a singing and dancing specialty act, were good; Carrie Ezier and Josie Webb, as the actress and the maid, was the success of the evening; Jack Irwin, in his original story, "The Kid's Last Fight," was rendered in an excellent style, and was deservingly applauded, and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Ellsworth, in a sketch, called "The Silk Stocking," were compelled to respond to several encores. "Amateur Night on the Bowery," a one act burletta, closes the show. It was full of snap and ginger, and employs the whole company to good advantage. Executive staff: Wash. Martin, manager; Chas. Finberg, business manager; Geo. Murphy, stage manager; Bill Fero, musical director; Joe Mullen, master mechanic. Next week, Broadway Gaiety Girls.

Broadway Theatre (Litt & Dingwall, managers).—That excellent drama of Western life, "The Round Up," moved to this house Monday evening, Oct. 21. There was on hand a large audience who applauded the many stirring situations. Maclyn Arbuckle still continues to be a big success as "Slim" Hoover, the sheriff. The other members of the company continued to please, there being no change in the cast. There is no doubt that big business will continue and that the play will remain at this house for some time to come.

Huber's Museum (John H. Anderson, manager).—James Mandy, the iron skull man, is the feature attraction here this week. Others are: George, the Turtle Boy; Irving's dogs; Walters, the Blue Man; Princess Brandia, Burto and Gill, Raymond and Marionett, Wyoming Jack and Nell, and new Edison moving pictures. J. M. Moore's New Orleans Minstrels hold over to big success.

Atlantic Garden (W. Kramer's Sons, managers).—The Two Arrows, gymnasts; the Musical Buckleys, Robin, comedy juggler; Mr. and Mrs. Sam King, colored comedy duo; Elodia Hunter, vocalist, and new moving pictures are the attractions this week.

Criterion (Chas. Frohman, manager).—"The Dairymaids" began, Oct. 21, its ninth week.

Garden Theatre (Henry W. Savage, manager).—"Madam Butterfly" began its second week Oct. 21. Elizabeth Wolff was Mr. Savage's third Cho-Cho-San at the afternon performance Thursday, 17, and in the evening Phoebe Strakosch again sang the role.

Belasco Theatre (David Belasco, manager).—"The Rose of the Rancho," with Frances Starr in the leading role, began, Oct. 21, its eighth week.

New Amsterdam Theatre (Klaw & Erlanger, managers).—At this house on Monday night, Oct. 21, occurred the first metropolitan production of The Merry Widow, an operetta in three acts, the music of which is by Franz Lehar, and book by Victor Leon and Leo Stein, and the English lyrics by Adrian Ross. The work was given its first American presentation Sept. 23, at the Wieting Opera House, Syracuse, N. Y. Berlin, Ger., first heard it, May 1, 1906, at the Berliner Theatre, but it had been presented in Vienna and later in Hamburg several months previously. The scenes of the piece are laid in Paris. The principality of Marsovia is bankrupt, and the only apparent hope for the restoration of its credit is the marriage of Prince Danilo to Sonia, a young widow worth $20,000,000. Prior to Sonia's marriage she and Danilo were in love, but she being a farmer's daughter, Danilo's uncle forbade their marriage, and they separated, she to marry a millionaire and he to become a member of the Marsovian embassy at Paris. Neither one has forgotten their early love, but when they meet in Paris they are both on the defensive, and play at cross purposes. They each endeavor to make the other jealous, and Danilo succeeds in getting rid of every man whom he thinks is making any impression upon Sonia. Everything comes right in the end, and they are happy in the knowledge that their early love has been renewed. The book and lyrics are sparkling, and the music is tuneful and catchy, and with this to work upon, Henry W. Savage has given us one of the best light opera productions New York has seen in many a day. The scenes representing the Marsovian Embassy, the Gardens of Sonia's residence, and the Cafe Maxim are fine examples of the scene painter's art; the costumes are beautiful, and the staging, under the skilful direction of George Marion, has brought out to the fullest the best that there is in the work, which means it would be difficult to find better. The company has been selected with care, and is excellent throughout. Ethel Jackson and Donald Brian, upon whom much of the burden of the work falls, each won a most pronounced success. They were neither of them very well known in this city prior to this engagement, but in a single night they won a place among the most popular metropolitan favorites. They both sing pleasingly, but it is their acting and dancing which win them their spurs. Miss Jackson is decidedly the best comic opera soubrette New York has seen for some time. She is pretty and vivacious, and her face gives expression to her every feeling. Sometimes it is lit up with animation and pleasure; sometimes it is clouded with chagrin, anger or defiance, but at all times there is noticeable the lurking presence of coquetry, and it is to this latter she owes much of her success in this role; for she lives the character of Sonia. Mr. Brian shares success with Miss Jackson. He is a capital actor, and knows how to get the most out of a song. Much of their work was together, and whether it was singing, dancing or acting, it was always sure of approval. R. E. Graham was excellent as Popoff. Fred Frear gave a good account of himself as Nish. Lois Ewell sang and acted the role of Natalie in a pleasing manner. The others lent good aid. The work of the chorus was above par, their singing was of the usual high standard of Mr. Savage's productions, and their dance numbers, particularly a Moravian dance at the opening of act two, were remarkably clever. All in all the performance is a treat, and the attraction is likely to stay with us all the season. The cast in full: Popoff, Marsovian Embassador, R. E. Graham Natalie, Lois Ewell; Prince Danilo, Donald Brian; Sonia, Ethel Jackson; Camille De Jolidon, William C. Weedon; Marquis Cascada, Walter C. Wilson; Raoul De St. Brioche, Charles Meakins; Khadja, Harry Hyde; Malitza, Margaret Dalrymple; Nova Kovich, F. J. McCarthy; Olga, Frances Cameron; Nish, Fred Frear; Praskovia, Blanche Rice; Little Willie, Harry Meyers; An Englishman, Ralph Whiting; Head Waiter, Gerald Lane; Orchestra Leader at Maxim's, Nichalos Szabo; Zo-Zo, Frances Cameron; Fi-Fi, Eva Bennett; Lo-Lo, Aurora Platt; Do-Do, Pauline Winters; Jou-Jou, Marion Armstrong; Fron-Frou, Jean Ward; Clo-Clo, Clara Tichenor; Margot, Portia Belma; Zu-Zu, Bernice Harte; Sapho, Sophie Witt.

Lyric Theatre (Sam S. & Lee Shubert, inc., managers).—Harrison Grey Fiske has given Percy Mackaye's three act tragedy, Sappho and Phaon, a wonderfully impressive and beautiful stage setting, the massive colonnades of a temple rising on the right of the stage, and the foliage losing itself in the flies, giving the appearance of great height and depth to the stage picture. Mr. Mackaye's play was given its first New York production on Oct. 21, and proved heavy and of such mysticism, and so unintelligible in many portions, that the auditor was frequently floundering about in an endeavor to secure some solid ground on which to stand and grasp an understanding of things. The blank verse was no doubt of great beauty in itself, but its meaning did not get over the footlights at times, and Sappho's great love for the slave Phaon, which led her to self-destruction, was not of sufficient dramatic interest to survive the theatrical test of three acts overburdened with dialogue and lacking in action. Bertha Kalich read her lines well, throwing her whole being into the interpretation, and giving the portrayal with intense feeling. Henry Kolker did quite well with the role of Phaon, and Fred Eric, while a trifle explosive, read with greater distinctness than the others of the company. Hazel Mackaye was most interesting as Anactoria, and Jessie F. Glendenning, a pretty girl, was dainty and pleasing as Athis. The cast: Phaon, Henry Kolker; Alcaeus, Fred Eric; Pittacus, Lucius Henderson; Bion, Gladys Hulette; Priest of Poseidon, R. M. Dolliver; Sappho, Bertha Kalich; Anactoria, Hazel Mackaye; Athis, Jessie F. Glendenning; Thalassa, Adele Block.

Miner's Eighth Avenue Theatre (Edwin D. Miner, manager).—The Toreadors opened the current week at this house Monday afternoon, Oct. 21. The cold weather, combined with the good show, drew a large attendance. This attraction has been seen in New York before, and its return visit proved that the show has not "gone back." The many tuneful numbers, the comedy work, the pretty girls and beautiful costumes drew much applause. Mildred Valmore, comedienne, and Anna Goldie, character comedienne, were added to the olio.

Weber's Theatre (Jos. M. Weber, manager).—"Hip! Hip! Hooray!" began its third week Oct. 21.

Garrick Theatre (Chas. Frohman, manager).—"The Step-Sister" began its second and last week Oct. 21. "Artie" follows 28.

Blaney's Lincoln Square Theatre (Cras. E. Blaney, manager).—"Robin Hood" is retained for another week. The revival is a splendid one.

Hackett Theatre (James K. Hackett, manager).—Francis Wilson, in "When Knights Were Bold," began his second week at this house Oct. 21.

Bijou (A. C. Campbell, manager).—Mme. Alla Nazimova began her fifth week in "The Master Builder," Oct. 21.

Harlem.—At Keith & Proctor's Harlem Opera House (E. F. Albee, general manager).—Henry Arthur Jones' "The Evangelist" is the offering of the stock company this week, opening big Oct. 21. Beatrice Morgan, as Mrs. Philip Nunechan, and John Craig, as Rev. Mark Shergold, did clever work, and scored big hits. Others who were excellent were: Louise Randolph, Louise Brunelle, Robt. Hill, George Howell, Wm. Norton, Charley Seay, William Carr and Emile Melville.

KEITH & PROCTOR'S ONE HUNDRED AND TWENTY-FIFTH STREET (E. F. Albee, general manager).—Maggie Cline is the headliner this week. Others are: Mareena, Nevaro and Mareena, Clark Bergman and Mahoney, Edwards Davis and company, Lewis and Green, Rossi's horse, Grant and Hoag, Georgie Laurence, Phantastic Phantoms, and motion pictures.

WEST END (J. K. Cookson, manager).—"The Spoilers" is the attraction for this week. It opened to a well filled house 21. The play was well presented by a most capable company. Next week, "At Yale."

METROPOLIS (Sam Hurtig, manager).—"Around the Clock" will hold forth this week. Next week, James J. Corbett.

STAR (Wm. T. Keogh, manager).—The four act melodrama, "The Convict and the Girl," is the attraction for this week. It is a superior type of this style of play, and the fact was appreciated on the opening day. It was applauded by an audience that packed this house. Next week, Canning, the Jailbreaker.

ALHAMBRA (Percy G. Williams, manager).—Several prominent headliners appear this week. Among them are Millie Lindon, the English star, this being her first Harlem appearance. She scored a great hit 21. Others are: Sharp Bros., Lang's Gotham Four, John C. Rice and Sally Cohen, Ancoletti and his dog, Bransby Williams, Lasky Quintette, Will H. Murphy and Blanch Nichols, and the Dunedin Troupe.

HURTIG & SEAMON'S MUSIC HALL (Ben Hurtig, manager).—Al. Reeves' Extravaganza Co. began its first Harlem appearance this season, 21, and was accorded a flattering reception. The company is well selected. Next week, Fred Irwin's Big Show.

GOTHAM (Dave Kraus, manager).—The Merry Maidens Co. opened to a crowded house 21, and was well received. The comedy work is excellent. The olio offered: Lewis and Thompson, Patti Carney, Some Quartette, the Two Graces, and Lulu Beeson. Next week, Tom Miner's Bohemian Burlesquers.

FAMILY (D. J. McCoy, manager).—This week: The Todesca Kending Trio, Harry Rawley, Eva Thatcher and company, the Great Pascatel, Eddie Horan, Dan Healy and company.

Brooklyn.—At the Montauk (Edw. Trail, manager) Lulu Glaser, in "Lola from Berlin," Oct. 21-26. "Follies of 1907" played to big business. Next, Sam Bernard.

MAJESTIC (W. C. Fridley, manager).—"At Yale" is the present attraction. "The Spoilers" had another big week 14-19. Coming, "The Earl and the Girl."

BIJOU (Wm. Hyde, manager).—Joe Morris is the star of "The Banker, the Thief and the Girl," playing here 21 and week. "Through Death Valley" pleased. "The Little Organ Grinder" 28 and week.

COLUMBIA (Chas. H. Wuerz, manager).—Lillian Mortimer for the first time here, in "Bunco in Arizona" this week. "The Way of the Transgressor" did well.

ROYAL (Jay Wolf, manager).—Antonia Maiori and his company present 21-26, "I Lampionara di Porta" ("The Lamplighter") and "Othello."

Cor. Sec., PHILIP MINDIL, 114 W. 39th Street, New York.

The gathering on Friday night, Oct. 18, took place at the (hotel) Hermitage, Forty-second Street and Seventh Avenue, over eighty members being present. Owing to the absence of the abbot, Wells Hawks, the dean, Charles Emerson Cook, presided. Friar Governor Willard D. Corey, who made his first appearance since his election, was warmly welcomed. Two distinguished guests were Charles M. Bregg, dramatic critic of The Pittsburg Dispatch, and Thomas F. Kirk, manager of the Nixon Theatre, Pittsburg, Pa. Both of these gentlemen made addresses of interest.

Friar Mason Peters announced that the supper in honor of Col. Henry Watterson is indefinitely postponed. "Marse" Henry is so busy that he does not know when he can come.

Friar Treasurer J. W. Rumsey, who is one of the chief advocates of a relief fund in The Friars, has sent his personal check for $25.00 to Friar Governor Harry G. Sommers, chairman of the relief committee. The board of governors have raised $50.00 among themselves for the relief fund. Friars who desire to donate money to this fund may send it to Friar Governor Sommers, manager of the Knickerbocker Theatre, New York City.

Friar Governor Marcus R. Mayer, who is now in London, has presented the Friars with two handsomely framed and most appropriate pictures for the new clubrooms. One shows a group of jolly friars about the banquet board, while the other has a merry party fishing in a meadow stream, somewhat typical of the old monastic melody, "To-morrow will be Friday, and we will have no fish to-day." Hon. Hugh Hastings, tax commissioner of New York, brought the pictures over for Friar Mayer, and conveyed them to the Friar abbot.

The year book is now in process of compilation, and it will be in the hands of the printer in a short time. It will include date of incorporation, list of founders, list of members who applied for the club's charter, list of officers, past and present, list of standing committees, constitution and by-laws, list of house rules and rules governing visitors, list of active, associate and lay members in good standing, list of honorary members and deceased members.

The Friday night gatherings of the Friars will be held at the Hermitage in the future.

THE SCHENK BROTHERS arrived from Europe and opened, Oct. 7, on the K. & E. circuit. They have since then been engaged for next season.

is scarce. Many Broadway productions fail for lack of it. And yet, good fun is what gets performers good engagements, good salaries and good notices. When it comes to constructing problem plays or serious operas, I'm strictly not in it, but I DO know how to write good fun. Convince yourself. Send for a copy of my latest book of stage comedy.

MADISON'S PRICE, ONE DOLLAR
NEW BUDGET No. 11

and have a laugh with me—not on me. It contains 28 parodies (crackerjacks), 9 monologues that always get the laughs, 12 sketches for two males, and three for male and female (the real goods), two burlesques ("wheel" quality or better, besides several hundred original stories, sidewalk patter, comic poems and toasts, etc. If you don't agree with me that Madison's Budget No. 11 is one great big comedy action, your money back on request. Price, $1 per copy (or for $1 extra I will include a copy of Madison's Budget No. 10—same size as No 11, but contents entirely different). Send orders to
JAMES MADISON.

FRANCO-BRITISH EXHIBITION
OF SCIENCE, ARTS AND INDUSTRIES.
London, Shepherd's Bush, 1908.

A GREAT INTERNATIONAL EXHIBITION

Demonstrating to the world the products and resources of the British Empire and of France and her colonies.

THE KING
has expressed his warm approval of the object of the Exhibition.
THE SECRETARIES OF STATE FOR THE HOME DEPARTMENT AND FOR THE COLONIES, THE PRESIDENT OF THE BOARD OF AGRICULTURE, OF THE BOARD OF TRADE AND OF THE BOARD OF EDUCATION
are Hon. Presidents of various sections of the Exhibition.
HIS GRACE THE DUKE OF ARGYLL, K. T., Hon. President.
THE RIGHT HON. THE DUKE EARL OF DERBY, K. G., President.

THE FRENCH EXHIBITORS' COMMITTEE have already secured 350,000ft. of floor space.
THE FRENCH COLONIES AND DEPENDENCIES have also secured 275,000ft. in the gardens for the erection of their superb Palaces and Pavilions.
THE AGRICULTURAL AND HORTICULTURAL COMMITTEES OF FRANCE have been allotted about 50,000ft. for their Pavilions and Exhibits.
THE DOMINION OF CANADA exhibits will occupy 120,000ft., and will include a Palace of unequaled magnificence for the display of Canadian products and manufactures.
AUSTRALIA will occupy 60,000ft., NEW ZEALAND, and other British Colonies and other Dependencies will also be represented on an important scale.
This FRANCO-BRITISH EXHIBITION will surpass in importance and grandeur any Exhibition previously held in the United Kingdom, and any profits which may accrue therefrom will be devoted to a National object.

A Comparison of the Franco-British with previous Exhibitions:

1851. Great Exhibition, contained 21 acres, with 16 acres of buildings.
1862. International Exhibition, contained 23½ acres, with 16½ acres of Buildings.
1908. The Franco-British Exhibition Site (within 13 minutes of Oxford Circus and Regent St., and 18 minutes from Trafalgar Square and Charing Cross), contains 140 acres, with 30 acres of Buildings.*

*This exclusive of Buildings which will be erected by the French and British Colonial Governments, Concessionnaires, Attractions, etc.

THE FINEST FRENCH AND BRITISH MILITARY BANDS
WILL PERFORM AFTERNOON AND EVENING.
Attractions of the Highest Character will be Installed in the Recreation Grounds.

THE OLYMPIC GAMES OF 1908

Combined with the Exhibition will be the quadrennial Olympic Games, originally celebrated in ancient Greece, and revived, at the instance of France, after an interval of 1,500 years, at Athens in 1896, and were held in Paris in 1900, and in Saint Louis in 1904, and will be held in London in 1908, for which a Stadium holding about 80,000 people and costing £50,000 is being erected.

INTERNATIONAL EXHIBITION OF SPORTS AND PASTIMES will be held in connection with the Great Stadium.

All applications for Attractions should be made at once to the Secretary of the Executive Committee and Application for Concessions, Souvenirs, Pleasure Railways, Electric Buses, etc., to the Chief of Concessions Department.

Gillette Safety Razor
NO STROPPING. NO HONING.

There is a great treat in store for you the first time you shave with the Gillette.
You will know what it means to enjoy a clean, comfortable, sanitary shave.
There will be no pulling, cutting or scratching. No tedious, tireless waits in the barber shop. Whether at home, traveling, or in your dressing room, the Gillette should always be your companion. Always ready—
NO HONING—NO STROPPING.
With the Gillette you can shave yourself in three to five minutes, and you will save time, money and endless inconvenience. Try it—it will prove itself.

The Gillette Safety Razor set consists of a triple silver plated holder, 12 double-edged blades, 24 keen edges (blades so inexpensive that when they become dull you throw them away as you would an old pen) packed in velvet lined leather case, and the price is $5.00 at all leading Jewelry, Drug, Cutlery, Hardware and Sporting Goods dealers. Ask your dealer for the Gillette to-day. If substitutes are offered, refuse them and write at once for our booklet and free trial offer.

"JACK THE KISSER"

SYNOPSIS OF SCENES.

A country village—The lovers' quarrel—Jack receives the kiss intended for the lover. The lawyer's wife kissed by Jack—Husband arrives—The wife shows husband how to mind his own affairs. A maiden plucking flowers—Jack kisses her—She is an athletic maiden—Jack comes out second best. The young mistress and her colored maid—Jack lays in wait—Kisses instead the colored maid. The village belles are Jack's next victims—They flee in terror—The old maid of the village sees the kiss—She rushes into Jack's arms—He runs in horror. Bills are posted "$100" reward for the capture of "Jack the Kisser"—Jack reads the poster—A sweet maid stops to read also—Jack kisses her—Interrupted by the old maid—Jack flees. Jack discovers two lovers seated on a stone wall—Pushing the boy away he kisses the girl, but the old maid arrives and pursues her Jack. A country lass enters the barn—Jack awaits her return, but kisses the cow instead—"And the old maid still pursues him." An indignation meeting held—Plans are laid for Jack's capture—A decoy is set—The pious parson arrives—Jack hides—The parson mistaken for Jack by the villagers—The mistake discovered—Jack enjoys the joke—They discover Jack. The chase over bridges—Through streets—Over stone walls—Into pipe yard—Through sewer pipe—Jack hides—Old maid discovers him. The capture—Poor Jack is bound to a tree—A hundred kisses to be given by the fat colored maid—She proceeds to carry out the sentence—Old maid becomes jealous—Fights for the honor—Poor Jack a victim of his own folly.

LOVE MICROBE

The Tender Passion Microscopically Treated in a Biograph Comedy.

LENGTH, - - - 670 Feet.

LOVE MICROBE

An erudite professor, with the hypothetical assumption that love is due to inoculation by a specific germ, handed down from the rose-scented period of Venus and Adonis, starting out in quest of the primordial atomic affinity bug, meets with wonderful success, for in the park he encounters a pair of turtle doves, billing and cooing, who furnish him the coveted microbe. Armed with this dulcin virus, he plays the part of Cupid, by injecting it into those he chances to meet. The result is astounding; transforming acrimonious grouches and tartary shrews into veritable Strephons and Chloes. Can you not imagine the possibilities for comic situations in this theme? Well, we haven't missed one.

PROFESSOR CUPIDO.

GAUMONT

FILMS ARTISTIQUES ORIGINAUX

NEW MOTION PICTURE FILMS

We shall place upon the American Market the following GAUMONT subjects during the Week of October 28--November 4, 1907

The attention of theatres, large and small, is called to this list of delightful comedies, every one of them in the front rank for photographic excellence, superb acting and natural wit, with stories that need no interpreter, but tell their own tale. They, as well as the dramatic subjects, are morally clean and intensely interesting.

These films can be purchased by any rental agency, and there is little reason for competing theatres to complain about lack of subjects.

The total number of feet of GAUMONT subjects for the week is 6,596 feet.

"THE ADVENTURES OF A BATH CHAIR"	560 Feet.
"THE ABSENT MINDED PROFESSOR"	504 Feet.
"ONIONS MAKE PEOPLE WEEP"	544 Feet.
"THE IRRISISTIBLE PIANO"	437 Feet.
"THE ATHLETIC DUDE"	500 Feet.
"FLOOR POLISHER"	234 Feet.
"THE THIEVING UMBRELLA"	407 Feet.
"TOWED BY AN AUTOMOBILE"	424 Feet.
"WHO HAS STOLEN MY BICYCLE"	274 Feet.
"THE GLUE"	467 Feet.
"SMOKE WITHOUT FIRE"	257 Feet.
--- DRAMATIC ---
"A FOUR YEAR OLD HEROINE"	427 Feet.
"AN EPISODE OF THE PARIS COMMUNE"	310 Feet.
"VOLUNTEER'S BETROTHAL"	684 Feet.
--- NAVAL ---
"NAVAL MANEUVRES"	567 Feet.
TOTAL,	6,596 Feet
